

Theo Peacock — Poet of the Highlands

'I don't call myself a writer' he says, though his poems are appreciated by the thousands who've read 'Tales of the Trail'

On a quiet afternoon, in the comfortable intimacy of his Gooderham bungalow, Theo Peacock is both at home and, at once slightly uncomfortable. It's as if he cannot reconcile himself to the room, to the couch on which he sits, and to the view from his picture window. It stretches perhaps half a mile, over a creek and scrub filled fields to the woods beyond, vibrant with the green of early summer. Those woods were, for 53 years, his life.

He gathers his thoughts slowly, sorting through a myriad of memories for the words so long written, for the verses so carefully composed. His eyes close and the voice, grown, gruff with years and cigarettes, is suddenly tinged with gentleness. The words reveal a side of the man that eyes cannot perceive.

"My boyhood friends have long since gone To the city far away; But my roots are sunk in the northland And I guess I'm here to stay. They say I should have gone with them And I sometimes think so too, But I fell in love with a paddle's splash And a gliding bark canoe!

Yes...I know that I've been lonely By my campfire's flickering flow, And I know that I have suffered Piercing cold and driving snow; And I know that I've been hungry That I've oft times needed bread; But I wouldn't change my way of life For a crown from any head.

'Cause I like to sit upon the hill And just watch the water flowing by; And I like to watch the wild geese Flying northward in the sky. I like to see the ruffled grouse Lie dusting in the sun; And I like to count the ducklings As they swim past, one by one; I like to see the spotted fawn Or a pair of cubs at play And I like to watch the sunset At the closing of the day.

They say that I'm bush wacky; Well...I guess, perhaps, it's true, But I can't get away from the paddle's splash And I can't get away from the white-cap's crash 'Gainst the side of a bark canoe."

The words are simple, the thoughts rooted in the experiences of a man who has lived close to the land. They express a love of nature and a keen sense of observation that, coupled with a gift for rhyme, have made Theo Peacock a poet of a very special kind.

Though his formal schooling was interrupted early in his life, he nevertheless found time for reading and reflection. "I read everything I could get my hands on."

He turned to poetry from the beginning, devouring the work of famous poets, learning the rhythms and the music of words. Today, with two books of poetry published, he still turns again and again to the work of others.

Napier Simpson dies in crash

Napier Simpson, Jr., architect, nationally known specialist in historic site restoration, and a member of Stanhope Township council, was killed Friday in the crash of a light plane in Newfoundland. Simpson, a member of the Historic Monument Board of Canada since 1970, was in Newfoundland for the unveiling of a plaque at the Lanse Aux Meadows site of 12th century Viking landings.

The twin engine chartered Beech 80 aircraft in which Simpson and nine others were flying, crashed in heavy fog moments after leaving St. John's airport. All ten aboard were killed.

Simpson, 53, was well known throughout the Haliburton area as an architect, having designed the new Pioneer Museum Building which is currently under construction, and as a hard working member of Stanhope council.

He developed an interest in Canadian Architecture in his childhood, and graduated from the University of Toronto's school of architecture.

He served as an architectural adviser during the construction of Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg, and in the centennial project of the town of Thornhill, where he maintained his architectural practice. The project involved selecting 35 historically valuable pioneer homes for preservation.

Another of his projects was the moving and restoration of Campbell House, the 156 year old brick house of Sir William Campbell, an early Chief Justice of Ontario.

He was also involved as an architectural adviser during the construction of the Black Creek Pioneer Village north of Toronto.

Simpson was involved in projects as far away as Florida and Pennsylvania, as well as in such projects as the Vincent Massey home in Port

Minden boy drowns Friday

The body of a five-year-old Minden boy was found Friday night on the banks of the Gull River, in Minden.

Police say that Michael George Procenko drowned in the river sometime Friday. The call was received at Minden OPP at 7:30 p.m.

No clues into the drowning have been discovered, and police are still investigating.

Former nurses' residence to become home for retarded

The Red Cross Hospital nurses residence, opposite the Dysart arena in Haliburton, will become a group home for the mentally retarded if the Red Cross Hospital Board accepts an offer to purchase the property drawn up by the municipality of Dysart et al.

Reeve, Murray Fearrey, said Monday that the agreement, drafted by the municipality in consultation with the hospital board, has received tentative approval. Final approval could come sometime in July.

The Dysart offer calls for the outright purchase of the property for $5,000.

"The content of the offer is that there would be a lease with the Haliburton County and District Association for the Mentally Retarded. Any profits beyond operating costs will be put into the hospital building fund, and if the building is sold in the future, the difference between the selling price and the $5,000 purchase price will be paid to the Red Cross," Fearrey said.

The existing use of the residence is multi-purpose residential and a zoning change will not be required to permit the home to be used by the association for the retarded.

Approval of the nurses residence as a site for the home would end a two year fight by the association to find suitable accommodation for up to six retarded county citizens.

A report outlining the need for a group home for the retarded was drafted by the local association in July of 1975. A site for the home was offered in 1977, but objections to the necessary zoning change from residents in the vicinity of the proposed home forced the association to seek an alternate site. A lot was found near the Lakeview Centre three months ago, and a local contractor offered to construct the dwelling and lease it to the association, but again objections to a zoning change stalled the project.

Reeve Murray Fearrey said Monday that he felt the purchase of the nurses residence for use by the retarded would be "a good move for the community."

Cost of operating the home will be 80 per cent funded by the provincial government. The remaining 20 per cent must be raised by the association, through its annual Flowers of Hope campaign, profits from ARC Industries, and the small amount charged to the residents of the home.

Dr. Bob Heyes, an association member who has been involved in negotiations to obtain the home, said Monday that the association hopes the residence can be in operation sometime this fall, perhaps as early as September.

Original plans not followed

MTC won't alter grade

The Ministry of Transportation and Communication will not change the grade of the hill at the intersection of Highways 121 and 35 in Minden, despite continued objections from Haliburton county council.

"I think we should go on record as saying that this is the biggest goof pulled by any ministry in this county in the last ten years," Dysart et al. reeve, Murray Fearrey said, at council's June meeting last Wednesday.

Complaints about the project surfaced in February, when a number of heavy

Council wants to meet Grossman

Haliburton county council will seek a meeting with Ontario Consumer and Commercial Relations Minister, Larry Grossman, to discuss rumoured government plans to close the Minden Registry office, despite the fact that the minister has said that "there is at this time no plan to close" the Minden office.

The minister made the statement in a letter sent last Monday to Victoria-Haliburton MPP, John Eakins.

Rumours that several Registry offices across the province may be slated for closure began with Grossman's announcement that the Grey County Registry office in Durham would be closed in September.

In a letter dated June 5, Eakins asked the minister to clarify his intentions regarding the two registry offices in the MPP's riding, in Lindsay and Minden.

"To consider the closure of either office would be most unacceptable, and would be met with very strong opposition", Eakins told Grossman.

At Wednesday's meeting of county council, Minden lawyer, Donald Finn, briefly outlined for council reasons why he felt the Registry office should not be closed. Moving the office out of Minden and relocating it in Peterborough, the location suggested in the rumour, would present problems not only for area lawyers who make frequent use of it, but for real estate brokers as well, who seek data from the office for almost every sale they make.

Finn's comments prompted council to draft a resolution calling on county clerk, Winn Lahay, to seek a meeting between the minister and a committee of council.

Stanhope reeve, Sinc Nesbitt, told council he felt a face to face meeting with Grossman was the best course to follow, since telephone calls and letters seldom get as far as the minister himself.

"It's my opinion that we'll get nowhere if we meet with anyone under the minister" Nesbitt said.

Dysart et al reeve, Murray Fearrey, argued that meeting with Grossman almost immediately would be premature. He suggested council should first obtain comments and factual information from Ontario Hydro, the local Natural Resources office, area real estate brokers, and others.

Fearrey said the information could be gathered over the summer and a meeting with Grossman arranged once the appropriate facts were gathered into a well organized submission.

On the strength of the Dysart reeve's arguments, council agreed not to press for a meeting until the facts were determined.

The meeting is expected to be sought in the fall.

Nancy Shipley, a grade eight student at Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School, received the Charles Irish award given to the school's top student. Vice principal, Gerald Irish, presented the award.

Several programs featuring Haliburton County and surrounding areas will be aired on CKCO-TV's "Betty and Friends" program, on various dates throughout the summer months.

Hostess of the program, Betty Thompson, travelled the area last week and visited several tourist attractions and landmarks around the county.

On Wednesday, June 28, the Kinsmen Home and Vacation Show will be featured, where Thompson participated in various draws.

The Haliburton School of Fine Arts will be aired on Thursday, July 6, including Irene Walker, a top weaving instructor from England and in the second segment, Mary Wallace will give a pottery demonstration.

Sandy MacDougall and Nancy Ellis will be shown giving a tour and a demonstration at the Kanawa International Museum of Canoes and Kayaks, on Wednesday, July 12.

Stuffed pork tenderloin will be seen, prepared by chef Robert, at the PineStone Inn, by the pool side, on July 17.

Guests during the filming, such as the Time Travelers antique car club, will also be featured.

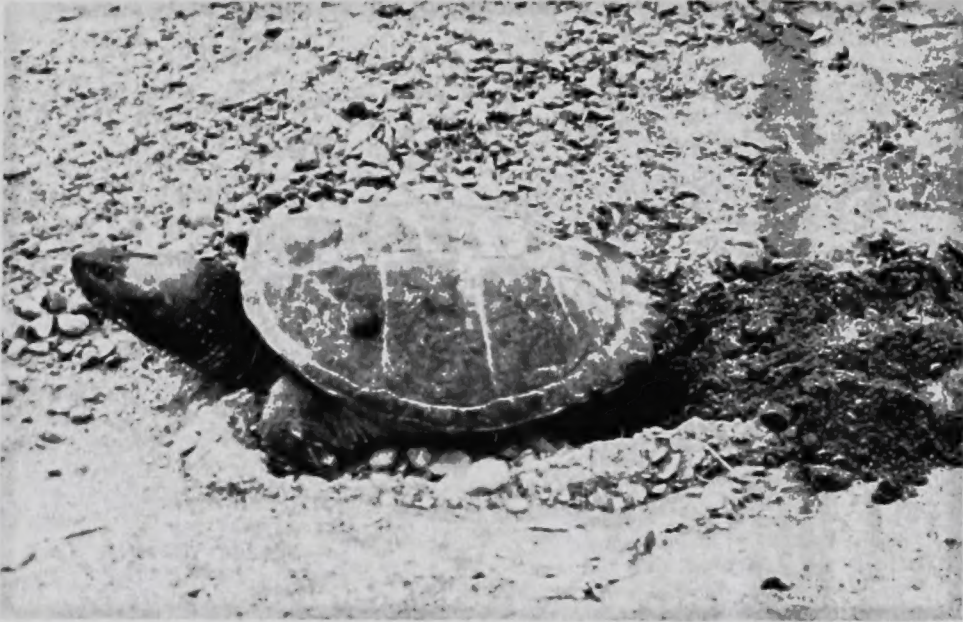

The late Napier Simpson, Jr., who was director of the Ontario Heritage Foundation discusses the home he bought in 1969 in Blagdon Hill and restored to its original English Tudor style, on July 21.

Since Nesbitt, Reeve of Stanhope Township, and Gerald Bain, the clerk, will be seen showing Thompson around the area on July 26.

On Wednesday, August 2, the Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home will be featured along with administrator, Sid Brown, and Activity co-ordinator, Lil Rawlins.

The Leslie Frost Resource Centre, operated by the Ministry of Natural Resources, near Dorset, will be shown on Friday, August 4, and Mr. W. Hardy and H. Chernow will host Thompson's visit.

The last segment will be shown on Tuesday, August 8, when George Hardy, curator of the museum, Al Baggs and Ron Curry host a discussion at the Haliburton Pioneer Museum.

This large snapping turtle was found at the side of Riverside Drive in Haliburton. The reptile had laid eggs in the sand and was just in the process of burying them when this photo was taken.

trucks were unable to make it up the hill after a snowfall.

Grade of the hill was altered during reconstruction work at the intersection which began last fall, and which is currently nearing completion.

In February, council complained that the ministry had not reduced the grade of the hill, as had been called for in the original specifications, but had instead lengthened the hill without significantly reducing the grade, making it difficult for trucks and other vehicles to reach the top in slippery road conditions.

Council maintained that there had never been a problem before the MTC work began. Original specifications had called for the removal of six feet of elevation off the crest of the hill, and the placing of fill at the foot of the hill, to effect a reduction in the grade.

At the February meeting, S. McCombie and D.O. White of the Ministry assured council that the original specifications had been met, reducing the overall grade to seven per cent from ten, but that the changes were not as obvious as council thought they would be.

Since then council has continued to press the ministry to reduce the grade further before final paving is applied.

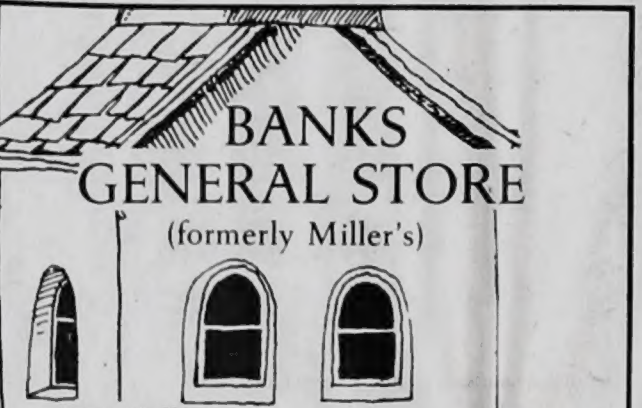

Last Wednesday, council heard a letter from S. McCombie, in which the ministry official said visibility at the crest of the hill was 500 feet, not the 600 feet that had been called for in the specifications. However, his letter said, because of the great expense involved to alter the grade now, that the project is nearing completion, no changes would be made.

Council was angry with the contents of the letter. "At no time did we discuss visibility," said Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve, Reg Booth. "They promised to take six feet off the top of the hill."

Calling it the biggest mistake in the last ten years, Dysart et al reeve, Murray Fearrey, said council should go right to the Minister, James Snow, if they had to, in order to get satisfaction on the matter.

Council decided not to abandon the fight, and will press the Minister with their complaints.

Housing, sewer projects benefit Grants, loans announced

1 1/4 million dollars has been injected into the economy of the village of Haliburton by the Federal Government, the Echo learned today from William C. Scott, MP, Victoria-Haliburton.

Urban Affairs Minister, Andre Ouellet, has announced that federal loans and grants totalling $1,212,799 and released under various provisions of the National Housing Act, have been made for housing and related projects in the village of Haliburton.

One of the loans, for $636,221, has been made to the Ontario Housing Corporation for the construction of a 35-unit senior citizens' apartment building on the south side of Mountain Street in the village.

The two-storey, brick and frame, electrically-heated building will contain one two-bedroom and 34 one-bedroom apartments. For the convenience of the tenants, there will also be a lounge; an outdoor recreation area; and parking for 17 cars. The project is within walking-distance of stores and churches.

The federal loan, made by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, will cover 90 per cent of the project's capital costs. It will bear interest at 10 per cent over a 50-year repayment period.

CMHC will also share equally with the Province of Ontario the cost of providing rent subsidies estimated to be about $41,751 annually.

Another CMHC loan, on behalf of the village of Haliburton, has been made to the Ontario Ministry of the Environment.

This loan, for $288,289, will help to pay for a sewage treatment project in the village. It is matched by a federal grant in the same amount.

Specifically, the federal funds will assist in the construction of approximately 4,900 metres of sanitary street sewers and 857 metres of force mains, as well as three pumping stations and all appropriate appurtenances.

OPP report

The Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police report the following activity for the period of June 19 to 25.

The staff investigated six reportable collisions. There were 97 general occurrences, nine break-ins reported and three compassionate messages delivered.

Council seeks grants for CN station work

The old CNR station in Haliburton may be restored and used as a tourist information centre with the help of a Canada Works grant for labour. Dysart et al clerk, Wayne Wood, said Monday that the municipality has applied to the federal government for a $35,000 grant under the make work program.

The station has not yet been transferred to the ownership of the municipality, but Canadian National Railways have indicated a willingness to deed the building to Dysart, Wood said.

The grant, if approved, will be used for restoration work on both the interior and exterior of the building, which has been used in recent years as a warehouse for CN Express, and which is in a state of disrepair.

It is expected that if the grant is approved, work to restore the building to its original condition, will begin in October, with the cost of materials being borne by the municipality.

The cutline under a picture of a girl throwing a bean bag that appeared on page one of last week's Echo, incorrectly identified the thrower as Kryste Rydman. In fact, Kellie Bird was the girl shown taking part in the annual Victoria Street School Fun Night.

In a list of winners of draws at the Haliburton Kinsmen Home Show, the winners of the Highland's Plumbing & Heating draw were inadvertently omitted.

First prize, a Moen pulsating shower head, went to Don Brohman of R.R. 1, Minden. Second prize, an Ondine convertible shower, went to C. Roberts of Haliburton.

Third prize, a set of hand towels, was won by Sharon Barnhart of R.R. 1, Haliburton.

'Simple poems that speak of feelings'

In a bookcase, in his living room, are volumes of poetry by Tennyson, Browning, Kipling, an autographed copy of Edgar Guest, Robert Service, Shakespeare, Robert Burns, Walt Whitman, E. Pauline Johnson, and his favourite, John Masefield.

"I use the good poets, really, for an education", he says, taking the well-worn copy of Kipling from the bookcase. He turns to "The Story of Ung", a poem about a primitive man who paints. Theo sees a similarity between the painter Kipling's poem describes, who can practice an art that none of his fellow tribesmen can imitate, and his own status as a writer of poems. "If everyone could write poetry I wouldn't be noted as a poet at all."

The humility, and the frank truth of the statement are typical of Theo's approach to living, and of his view of his poetry.

"I don't call myself a writer at all" he says, recalling a time when he attended a writer's seminar in Lindsay that included several well known Canadian authors and poets. He went less to hear their work than to see what a "writer" looked like.

Simple people, down to earth people, like poetry that tells a story, Theo feels, poetry that reflects simple thoughts and feelings. "I like what I put on paper", he says, "because it tells of sounds, smells, feelings."

Theo was born on a farm near Fortescue, in Peterborough County, and he has lived and worked in the Haliburton Highlands for all but a few months of his 73 years.

It's a harsh land, and it has left its mark on Theo's weathered face. But it's also a land of rugged beauty where a man could, and still can, get away from the trappings of civilization. That, more than anything else, is what Theo cherished about the woods, and solitude gave impetus to his poetry.

"I can go to the woods all alone, along trails and streams, and just sit. I can be perfectly at ease with life. I don't need company."

Though he spent his childhood on a backwoods farm, it was the orders of a doctor that sent him to the woods for increasing lengths of time. He left school at 13, when he contracted a bone disease. A doctor recommended that he build up strength and stamina by spending time in the bush. He was soon at home with nature, becoming an expert hunter, and learning to trap. For 53 years, until he sold his trapline and retired in 1970, Theo made at least part of his living by trapping, returning to the woods each winter for beaver, mink and muskrat.

The poetry grew out of his experiences along the traplines, when there were long cold nights to pass with nothing but his thoughts for company. In a poem like "Song of the Wild", Theo describes a way of life he came to love.

There's a creek runs down by Salmon Lake
And dumps into the Black,
There upon the hillside
Stands a rustic shack.
It stands beside the water
That goes hurrying to the sea,
That shack's not much to look at
But it's home, just home, to me.

There's a snowshoe trail for twenty miles
That I have left behind,
There are snowshoe blisters on my feet
Where the snowshoes' harness bind;
There are packstraps galls upon my back
Where the heavy pack strap wore.
Now I shed those shoes and drop the pack
Before that cabin door.

Soon bacon will be frying
And sizzling in the pan;
There'll be lots of beans and coffee,
Good chuck for any man.
Then supper over, dishes washed,
And the stove glowing cherry-red,
I'll douse the light, and light my pipe
And lie back on the bed.

There I'll listen to the Night-song,
It's a song that few can hear,
It's a song of joy and sorrow,
Of passion and of fear.

There's the joyous sound of water
As it hurries down the hill,
The sorrowful cry of waiting fox
For a mate that a snare has killed;
The passionate call of the timber wolf,
A call that is pleading, shrill,
Calling to kind in the wilderness,
For a mate, or to share the kill.

Then the owl drifts down on Wabasso
On wings soft as a baby's breath,
And the cry that started, a cry of fear,
Became, really, a cry of death.

Then the fire falls together
And rattles in the stove
And I hear the night wind whisper
Through the pines up in the grove,
Through the window I watch the silvery moon
As slowly it moves along,
Then I drift away in a dreamless sleep
Lulled by the wild woods song.

The poetry has always come easily to him, though he cannot write poems at will. He writes when he is struck by inspiration. Then, in a burst of creativity slowed only by his difficulty with spelling, he writes. At least one of his poems was written on the back of a cigarette package, he says, though most were put down on more conventional scraps of paper. He puts them aside for a day or so, then "polishes" them with a rewriting. On a rainy day, sometimes long after the inspiration first struck, "I polish them again."

Though his poems can be appreciated in "Tails of the Trail", the collection published in 1974 as a centennial project of Galmorgan Township, Theo's writing comes to life when he recites it, almost always from memory. It is then that the depth of feeling which lies behind his words emerges most clearly.

Theo is not a religious man, at least in the conventional sense. His church was, and remains, the woods, and his communion came in moments of solitude under the stars or beside rushing rivers, near the animals he came to know so much about.

He sees the presence of God in nature. "I do believe there must be a great creator. Things seem to work out so smooth". The cycle of death and rebirth is repeated year after year in the turning of the seasons, and there is a harmony in it all that lies beyond the reach of man. "It's just timed right to perfection," Theo says.

The poetry of "Tales of the Trail" repeats a subtle theme, that is nowhere said explicitly. Nature, in Theo's view, has no morality. It is neither good nor bad, except as man sees it. In "Trapper Trouble" he reflects on the fact that pain, for both animal and man, is a reality that cannot be avoided.

"Yes...I've trapped for years and years,
Caught animals, no end;
But I always try for a painless set
With a quick death at the end.
But I know there's always suffering
For both animal and man

And I guess there always has been Ever since the world began.

Though he loves nature, Theo doesn't call himself a conservationist. He was, he says, a killer, though he has no remorse about it. He always watched the populations of the animals he sought. If the beaver or the mink along his trapline became a little scarce, he'd leave them for a season, until their numbers came back up again. But trapping and hunting always called him back to the woods, and it's a call he still hears, though he can no longer walk well enough to go very far.

There's so many places I'd like to see", Theo says, "that I know I'll never get to again."

Today, he lives a quiet life in Gooderham, and people sometimes drop by to chat, or to ask him to autograph a copy of "Tails of the Trail". And he is always ready to oblige.

Though he is very much a part of the present, taking an interest in the affairs of the world, Theo Peacock is also content with his memories of a life that had few material rewards, but that was spiritually rich in a way that few people are fortunate enough to experience.

In "Dozing", a poem written recently, Theo pictured an old man dreaming in the sun, filled with a wistful nostalgia for a way of life that is gone. It speaks a simple truth that is Theo Peacock, the poet and the man.

As I doze, I dream of the time
When I roamed the woods
With a pack on my back
And I long for those days, so long gone by
But I know they can never come back.
I sit and bask in the warm sunshine
Throughout the long summer day
Just like a stump on the side of a hill
I sit dozing my life away.

I wake, then doze, and dream of the time
When I worked on the trapping trail
I hear again the paddles role on
The bark canoe's gunwale
It is a pleasure to me to dream of those things
As I sit in the warm sun's rays
For I know I would give all the time I have left
For just a few of those -- yesterdays.

The wrong approach

There is a pervasive attitude among those who serve on municipal government that assumes both the provincial and federal governments are adversaries who must be battled at every opportunity. At stake in the fight, as far as councils are concerned, is power, the right to decide what is best for the people of a township or a county.

The adversary approach often surfaces in Haliburton County, where councils are removed geographically, and philosophically, from the workings of larger governments. It's an approach, however, that is largely without justification, and it's one that councils would do well to avoid.

At a meeting of county council last week, a rumour that the provincial government was considering closing a number of Registry offices, including the one in Minden, was greeted with dismay. After a brief discussion, a resolution was called for to seek a meeting with Larry Grossman, Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations. Council was determined to nip any thoughts of closure in the bud. Yet the fact was that the Minister had said there were no plans to close the office in Minden, and that any move to consider the fate of the office lies at least three years down the road.

Council's reaction was emotional rather than rational. The provincial government was a kind of Goliath, at that moment, and they a David. Council would have gone into battle hastily, without the weapon of a carefully prepared brief. In reacting that way to rumours of government plans, before facts are known, council do themselves, and the citizens they represent, a disservice.

There is no doubt that the function of a municipal council is to look out for the interests of the citizens it serves. And there is no doubt that at times that responsibility will place councils at odds with the decisions of larger governments. But rising up against every move the province or the country takes, as if large governments were solely self-serving, and those of municipalities utterly selfless, is clearly senseless, and potentially damaging, if not to the citizens, then to the credibility of principal government.

Governments exist to serve the needs of the people. If those needs are not, in the eyes of the voters, being met, those governments will be voted out of office. The structure of democracy allows it.

Democracy also needs, and indeed thrives, on a dialogue between people with opposing points of view. But that dialogue should be reasoned and factual.

Councils are right to question a government decision when its effects may be harmful to the people those councils represent. But they are wrong to assume that the government is insensitive to the needs of people outside "the golden horseshoe."

It's time councils took a hard look at their own actions and attitudes, and it's time the voters spoke out against hasty moves that could damage co-operation between governments, a co-operation that works to everyone's benefit.

A two way street

Politics, at every level, involve responsibility. Elected representatives have a responsibility to carry out their duties faithfully, and they have a responsibility to listen to the needs of the people they represent.

But the voters have a responsibility too, and it's one that is every bit as vital to the political process. Voters have a responsibility to respect the rights of those they have elected, and that includes their right to privacy. Yet it's a depressing fact that while most politicians strive to live up to their responsibility, an appalling number of voters do not. They call the reeve or councillors at all hours of the day and night. They drop by a politician's house on a Sunday to discuss some matter of decidedly minor importance. They corral politicians on the street, haranguing them in language often far from polite, assuming that because an individual has been elected to office, he has suspended his right to go about his business undisturbed. The smaller the municipality, it seems, the more acute the problem.

There is no doubt that reeves and councillors must make themselves available to the people they represent. But must they be available at all times, to listen to whatever point of view?

Council meetings are always open to the public. Those with particular problems can ask to be included on the agenda in the form of a delegation. They can discuss their problem before the whole council, and press council to resolve it. Yet voters seldom take that course. Instead, they phone a municipal politician or go to his place of business, as if he were, by virtue of his office, fair game for anyone, at anytime.

More than one politician has been driven from office by the pestering of voters. It's a process that may well be repeated in municipalities throughout the county.

Good, progressive leadership is vital. Voters can lose it if they ignore their responsibility and hound politicians with constant harangues about petty problems.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was in Haliburton on the weekend, visiting friends and, of course, we went to the Home Show. It was very nice, well organized and I could see a lot of time and effort had gone into it. The booths were well displayed by the individual businesses, except for the I.G.A. booth which I felt "stuck out like a sore thumb." I could say many things about the I.G.A. booth, but I won't as I think it was a very serious error on the part of the management of I.G.A. I fully believe in competition, but when a grocery store, which is first a food store, deliberately puts on a display as they did, I think it is very unfair to Nancy's Flowers.

Here you have a local person trying to make a living out of a business dealing with flowers and plants. Then a food store puts on a display of plants only. They had nothing to show that it was a food store display. A shoe store would not put on a display of socks only. A stereo or TV store would not display records only. If you went to a home show elsewhere, I'm sure any food store represented would be offering information on meat cuts, groceries and produce products. In a small town like Haliburton, where everyone seems to try to help one another in regards to the business community, I feel that I.G.A. owes an apology to the owner of Nancy's Flowers.

Yours truly,

B. Gorham,
Toronto.

To the Editor:

We are each representative of our French and English founding cultures. We have spent some 25 years in as many foreign countries with those excuriating problems arising from politics, poverty and social adjustments which only too often result in revolution.

When presenting our observations on our distant and beloved country, we know that we reflect the feelings of thousands of our compatriots who, like us, are engaged in diverse professional activities abroad.

We are also fully conscious of the many regional, economic and cultural problems which tend to divide our nation, but we firmly believe that in reality Canada is not by any means a dying country. To the contrary, we are convinced that Canada is on the way to its own Renaissance. As distance does not allow us to participate directly in this awakening, we have wanted to make our contribution by sending this letter to the 950 English and French language newspapers in Canada.

We simply refuse to believe that Canadians are less intelligent than other people. Surely Canadians realize that a united Canada is a strong Canada and that a divided Canada can only be a weak country which projects among its foreign friends and customers a feeling of skepticism, uncertainty and confusion. The disunity of a country, of any country, only invites lack of respect abroad for that country. A divided Canada clearly risks being absorbed and disappearing completely

Editor's Notebook by Len Pizze

There are some stories that come easily to someone who must write for a living, and there are others that come slowly, painfully, with teeth clenched and eyes riveted on the typewriter keys. They are started and rejected dozens of times, and a pile of first sentences, or first paragraphs, grows in the waste basket along with the frustration.

Those stories that are so hard to write are often the ones that matter most, to the writer, if not to the people who read them. And almost invariably, those stories involve special people.

This week, after more than two weeks of trying, I finally wrote a story that I have wanted to write for a long time. It's a story about Theo Peacock, "The Haliburton Trapper", a man who is, in a word that's much over-used, truly remarkable.

It's not that he looks or acts much differently than other people, though he has the weathered toughness of a man who has spent a lifetime in the biting cold and burning sun of the Haliburton woods. It is, rather, that he has a feeling for simple things in life that few people are gifted to enjoy, and a way of seeing and saying that is even rarer.

I spent three hours with him one afternoon a few weeks ago, and it was an afternoon that I have thought about many times since. I took a tape recorder with me, and though he was reluctant to let me use it at first, Theo finally consented to let me turn it on. I should have known better. I should have taken notes instead of relying on a machine to capture his words, and thoughts. He talked easily and well, reciting poems from memory, recalling days and nights stretching over the 53 years he spent trapping and hunting in the woods of Haliburton County. When it was over, and I had left with a promise to return again, I clutched the tape recorder like a treasure, certain that I had the material for a story that would mean much to me. But I was fooled. The machine didn't pick up his words, and I was left with sketchy notes, and strong impressions, tantalized but without the substance of a story.

I read his poetry again and again, trying not to look at it through eyes that spent five years studying English Literature. But I could not purge myself of a habit that was arduously acquired. I kept seeing themes and images, meter, rhyme and rhythm.

After two weeks of trying, I wrote my story. And like any story that really matters, it didn't live up to my hopes for it. But then, I should have known better than to write about Theo Peacock.

No words but his own can do the man justice.

Feir Play

by Creighton Feir

We who live here in the Highlands of Haliburton like to brag of the wonderful roads and highways we have to travel on. In most cases they are excellent but I think that we all have to admit that there are some of them that leave a great deal to be desired. Take for instance the road known as the slipper road near Haliburton that takes you down to Wig-A-Mog and Deer Lodge. This road is in bad need of repair and re-surfacing and when one thinks of the traffic on this section, it's just about time something was done about it. The highway from Haliburton to Minden also needs some straightening out and work done on it. When it comes to priorities, a good look should be taken on the Haliburton to Eagle Lake highway. This stretch of highway can be called nothing less than a mess. It is and has been for many years, in need of a complete overhaul and in our opinion the base of the highway is nothing but stumps. In an editorial in our newspaper, of March 27, 1975, Jim Csanig, who resides in Eagle Lake, and has to make this trip to Haliburton practically every day of the week, had this to say and we quote: "By careful calculation it has been ascertained that the normal nine mile drive is now 9.53126, the additional length being caused by bumps, dips, nooks, hillocks, protruding stumps, rocks and any other paraphernalia the road cares to display in the spring." - end of quote. Jim hit it right on the head. This is exactly what we have. How long are we going to have to wait for action?

This week I received a letter from Nelson C. Bates who resides at 90 Lytton Blvd., Toronto, Ont. Mr. Bates stated in his letter that he was born in 1896 at Cheddar (now non-existent) in Cardiff Township. He went on to say that when he was a boy, Wilberforce was their shopping centre which was seven miles away. About 1912, for several summers, he worked in the Laking sawmill, in Haliburton, and he seems to recall a Mr. Feir operating the railway mail car to Lindsay, daily. The Mr. Feir in question was my grandfather. Mr. Bates also said that he knew the late R.H. Baker, then the proprietor of the "Minden Echo" and that he once lived a few months as a paying guest in his home in Minden. He ended his letter by saying that he has sentimental connections with the county and The Echo. It was good to hear from you Mr. Bates.

We are, at present, in the middle of Canada Week, which runs from June 25 to July 1. It has been a growing success with each passing year. If you want to know what Canada really is, ask someone who has recently emigrated to this country. Or, if you have travelled abroad, you know when you say "I'm a Canadian" almost everyone receives you with genuine friendliness. How many other nations do you know who are received in the same way? We who live in Canada can be proud of the fact that we live in the best country in the world. We don't seem to realize just what we have here and it seems to me that we have turned into a nation of beefers. We don't seem to be satisfied with anything. We Canadians are facing a crucial time in our history. It may seem difficult to get hold of the problems facing us, to get them to stand still long enough for us to work out equitable solutions. It is up to each Canadian to demonstrate his faith in Canada, its wonderfully diverse people and the future we can build together. To let this country slip from us now because of apathy, indifference or the ignorance of short-sighted views, would be a tragic event for our children and for the world.

From time to time we all talk of how we are going to promote a bigger and better winter business. We talk of snowmobiling, cross country skiing, hockey tournaments, ice fishing, and many other events, but it would seem to me that we never hear of one of the greatest assets we have as far as winter sports are concerned and that is downhill skiing. We have, right here in the Highlands of Haliburton, one of the best ski hills that you will find anywhere in Ontario and that is at Sir Sam's Inn, at Eagle Lake. For the downhill skier there is everything right here, a T-bar, chairlift and rope tow. It's all well and good to talk about these other winter sports, but it's just about time that we started to promote the downhill skiing at Sir Sam's. No one has any idea just how much money this business brings into the local economy.

In this week's issue of The Echo you will notice that we have done a feature story along with some excellent photos of years gone by, on the village of Kinnmount. When we think of Kinnmount it brings to mind what a great hockey place this was in the past, and still is. We can recall many memories of playing hockey in the open air arena, in Kinnmount, and of watching many a thrilling game played in this same spot. For the size of the village of Kinnmount, it has turned out some great hockey teams that were so good they ranked right up there with teams from even larger centres. We can also recall the hockey special trains leaving Haliburton and when the train arrived at Kinnmount, you could always expect a large number of fans to jump aboard and follow their great hockey team to the tournaments in Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Omemee, and other centres.

It is my opinion and the opinion of many others that it's possibly time the council of the Municipality of Dysart et al took a good hard look at the Ward system and see if it's really working or not. Possibly it should be on the next ballot to see whether the voters want it or not. It is my opinion that the Ward system should be dispensed with. We're not suggesting that those who hold office today aren't doing an adequate job. What we are saying is that more persons should run for public office, and that members of the entire municipality should decide who governs them. After many years in practice, the Ward system has made it a little too cushy for some elected members who might have to fight for their political lives in a municipal-wide general vote.

There are so many things about me that annoy my wife that I could not list them in this space, not even in point form.

But I believe the one thing that annoys her most severely is that, "You always have your nose stuck in a newspaper." Well, I retort, if one must get one's nose stuck in something, there are a lot more painful things than a newspaper.

She's right, of course. I gloat through two dailies, a welter of weeklies, a scattering of news magazines, and a gaggle of other publications, from the Anglican to Canadian Literature. When I'm not reading news, I'm reading books, from fiction to history to biography, from children's books to spy stories to pornography.

It must be irritating to her, when she's trying to tell me what a scramble she had with her music pupils, or why the dart she put in her new blouse makes her look like Mae West with one breast shot off.

It must be maddening to her, when, after fifteen minutes of waiting about our daughter's unemployment, groaning about our grandsons' powers of destruction, or worrying about our son's safety in the purlieus of Paraguay, to have me look up and say, "Hey, sweetie, did you know that Dennis Braithwaite (a columnist) had the gout?" Know what causes the gout? Or, "Guess what that turkey Trudeau is going to do next?"

She is, however, hot with-out a modicum of realism. If she were a general's wife, she'd know that I had to be off to the wars, or at least to come cosy place within fifty miles of the front lines. If she were a doctor's wife, she'd know that you can't make $100,000 sitting around watching TV. If she were a lawyer's wife, she'd know that your ears do prick up, like a hound dog's, when you hear an ambulance siren.

So, she's the wife of a teacher and a writer. And she knows darn well that this is part of the price. The man has got to read.

At least this is the picture I draw for her, in many a heated discussion. Sometimes I manage to convince her, until the next lapse. The truth is something else.

I read the news for nefarious and numerous reasons. One is for pure laughs. Often this is at the media themselves, and the seriousness with which they take themselves. Did you ever see, since cousin Elmer was left standing at the altar, such a disgruntled bunch as the media when the Prime Minister refused to call the election they had got themselves so engorged about?

Another reason I peruse the papers is to indulge my taste for irony. In an effort to keep the peace, the Yanks are selling fighter planes to both Israel and the Arabs. They would prefer to sell only to Israel, because there is a veritable host of Jewish votes in the U.S. But they need oil, so they sell to the Arabs, too. Shades of the days when they sold scrap iron to Japan, before WW II, and had it returned with interest in the form of shrapnel.

I study the media as a sort of ego trip. Doing so makes me aware that I am not as obnoxious as Pierre Berton, not as arrogant as Pierre Trudeau. It works the other way too. I learn that I'm not as fearless as Borje Salming, not as colorful as Muhammed

Ali. But then I'm not as silly as Elwy Yost or Howie Meeker, so I really come off fairly well.

Studying the news makes me aware of the darkness of the human condition. Two little boys in England, six and four, beat an old lady of 84, bed-ridden, to death because she gave one of them six-pence, and the other nothing. I wonder about my grandboys.

I read a story, and wonder at the lack of a sense of humour among our politicians. Recently a professor hired to do a study of falling enrollment in schools, came out with the first part of his report. With tongue in cheek, he suggested women should start staying home and having babies, or perhaps test-tube babies should be produced; otherwise, our educational system would fall apart for lack of clients. The polls, fanned by the media, accused him of racism, anti-feminism, and everything else short of going to the bathroom without having to.

I know the feeling. Sometimes I make a joke in this space, and I'm appalled at the reaction of humourless people. I'm attached to a libertine, an atheist, a monarchist, a war-monger, a peace-monger, a perverter of the young, a denigrator of the elderly, a male chauvinist, a female apologist, a rotten husband and father, a lazy bum, a teacher who should not be allowed within hailing distance of our young.

It doesn't bother me much, because I get all this jazz at home, long before the letter writers get at me. I'm not any of those things. I'm just old Bill Smiley, trying to keep his head above water in the stream of life, without swallowing any of the sewage that seems to infest it.

Finally, I enjoy that old enjoyable known as "I told you so." I get a real kick out of looking back and realizing that some cause I espoused years ago, to the great indignation of my friends and foes, is now the in-thing. Thirty years ago I said we should recognize Red China, a fact. Horror! Now they're our buddies. They buy wheat.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

The untimely death of Napier Simpson, Jr., in a plane crash last weekend, left members of our community shocked and deeply saddened. Napier was well known not only in Stanhope but throughout the county where he did much to stir interest in our past heritage. Just a week before this accident he was interviewed and filmed by CKCO-TV at his famous Blagdon Hill. Funeral services were held for the immediate family at St. Peter's Church.

Napier will be missed greatly by all who knew and dealt with him and his loss leaves an enormous vacuum to fill in the municipal scene. His memory will most certainly remain with us through the many legacies he has left the county. Our sincere sympathy is extended to members of the Simpson family, and our gratitude for their sharing of Napier with the rest of us.

Downtown Renewal

Two students have begun work on our summer project of studying downtown renewal possibilities for both Minden and Haliburton. Louise Fleming and Kathy Richardson will be seen shortly interviewing both business people and shoppers to prepare data that will lead to preparing a Business Improvement Area plan for each town. We do hope you will spare them a few moments of your time to thoughtfully give them your input - they are working towards your future.

Welcome New Members

Les Hughes is certainly not new around Haliburton but his venturing into the travel agency business is. Les is now located at the rear of Arrow TV and is equipped to help you with your vacation plans. It costs no more to deal through a travel agent and you get the benefit of his expertise in putting together your vacation package.

Fort Irwin Marine, at Haliburton Lake, has been sold to John & Eileen Bruce and they are presently at the premises and would enjoy meeting their new neighbours. Ken and Wanda Evans have not left the scene entirely and may still be seen on the premises helping the new owners get started. Drop in and meet them welcome.

Bend O'River Cottages, just south of Minden, has been purchased by Jack and Frances Lee. They are busy doing many renovations at the present time. Unlike Mr. Mitchell, the previous owner, Jack and Frances plan to live on the property year round and Jack is equipped to operate a Dura Clean service on rugs and upholstery.

Just north of Halls Lake, on Saskatchewan Lake, Doug and Sandy Johnson are busy fixing up Birch Haven Cottages to suit their future plans. In addition to the neat cottages nestled along the lakeshore, Doug plans on restoring a log cabin that sits on the edge of the woods and clear more land for trailers and camping. Doug is proficient in carpet installation and intends to provide this service to the community as well.

Albert Yakely, proprietor of the Minden Pop Shoppe, is on the verge of opening the Haliburton Pop Shoppe. The new building is nearing completion next to LaRue Motors, just west of Haliburton, and Albert hopes to open within the next week or so. Judging from his present success with the shop in Minden, we are sure this one will do well.

We sincerely wish all of these new ventures much success and hope you will make the newcomers in our business community welcome.

Information Centres Now Open All Week

Lorrie Burke and Ev Perrin are now staffing the "Information Caboose" at Haliburton and will have it open seven days a week. This centre is operated by the municipality of Dysart and they urge all Tourist operators to drop their brochures in for distribution to the public.

MPP reports

The following is a letter sent to Victoria-Haliburton MPP, John Eakins, by George McCague, Minister of the Environment, in response to Mr. Eakins concern about a story that appeared on the front page of the Toronto Star recently, in which it was suggested that acid rain is killing resort area lakes in Haliburton and Muskoka.

Dear John:

This is in reply to the question you raised in the Legislature on June 9 about the effects of acid precipitation on the Muskoka-Haliburton lakes.

The reference to "dead" lakes in the Toronto Star was not appropriately placed. It should have been referenced in context with the Sudbury area lakes, some of which have been reported to be incapable of supporting fish life.

While there may be some lakes in the Muskoka-Haliburton area approaching the critical level, we have found none to date which are devoid of fish.

Yours sincerely,

George R. McCague,
Minister of the Environment.

Frank's Cafe and Hotel, Haliburton
J.W. Robertson, Prop.

As you can see by our Pic of the Past this week, the above photo was taken many, many years ago. It shows Frank's Hotel and Cafe on Haliburton's main street, which is now long gone. The building, which was owned and operated by Frank Robertson, was torn down years ago. At the present time most of the area where the hotel once stood is now the Haliburton Red & White parking lot. The red brick building on the left was just recently demolished to make room for a parking area for the new IGA store which is now under construction. The new store will be at the back of the lot. Our thanks to Mrs. Bob Brohm, of Haliburton, for submitting this photo.

Report from Parliament

by William C. Scott MP

A series of events over the past couple of years leaves me with a growing concern that Canadians might be losing some of their traditional freedoms.

I am not alone in this belief. Editorial writers on many of our country's leading newspapers have recently expressed the same concern. In fact, the editor of the Toronto Sun, Peter Worthington, has been charged by the federal government with a breach of the Official Secrets Act.

On May 30 of this year the Toronto Star ran an editorial which said that the easy confidence with which Canadians have viewed their democratic laws and customs has been dampened by recent events.

The editorial pointed out that too much of Prime Minister Trudeau's legislation in recent years has enshrined government activities in a veil of secrecy; put policemen and other officials beyond the reach of the courts and the law, and restricted the rights of citizens who find themselves in conflict with authority. Much of this is defined as being in the interest of protecting us against terrorism and subversion.

Of particular concern to me is the fact that the veil of secrecy has now been extended to our courts, the traditional protector of individual rights and freedom.

This latest misuse of the new secrecy policies of

The Chamber "Welcome Centre" at Minden has been open 7 days a week since May 24th and Lorri Stinson has now joined Dana Gouch to provide visitor information there.

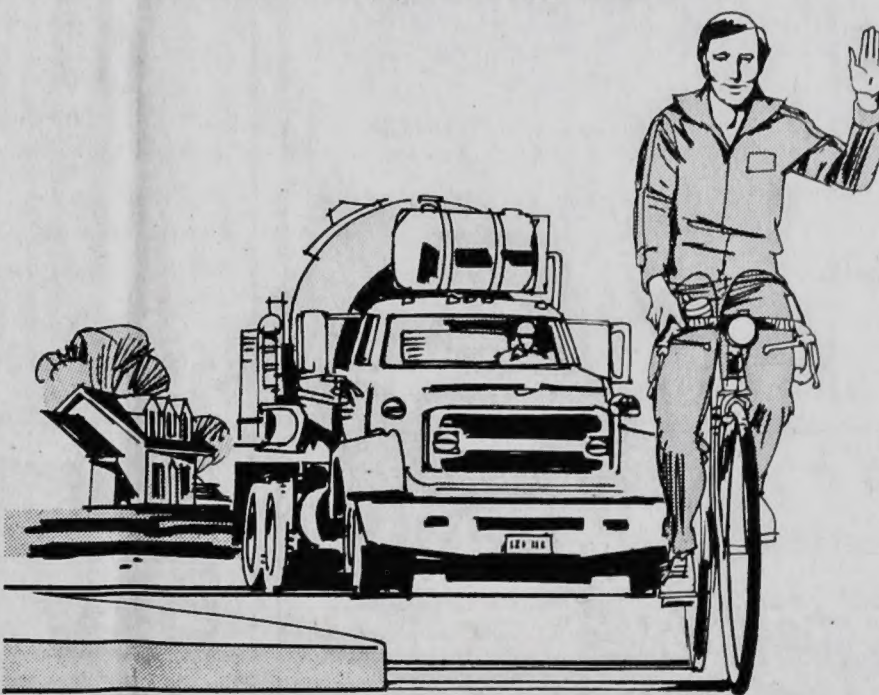

The municipality of Cardiff have moved a historic log school house out to a site on Highway 28 just east of McGillivoy Road and have established a new information and museum. Displays for "rock hounders" are also provided. This facility is a welcome addition for tourist operators in that end of the county.

As promised last week, CKCO-TV has provided a full schedule of telecasts involving film taken here in the highlands.

Bicycle accidents are increasing

This is what Ontario is doing to help make bicycling safer

Stay alert to stay alive!

Many bicycle accidents involve collisions with cars or trucks whose drivers never "see" the bicyclist until after it's too late. As a bicyclist, you have just as much right to the road as cars, buses or trucks. But you're small and they're big, and being right doesn't help if they don't see you! So it's up to you to watch out for you. Stay alert to stay alive!

We urge you and your family to become familiar with the rules of bicycle safety.

Your Ontario government has prepared a special booklet called "The Bicyclist's Handbook". It covers cycling tips, rules of the road, traffic signs, how to become an expert cyclist and how to maintain a safe bicycle.

Along the Trails by Roy Bates

While this column is usually a wintertime feature, things have been happening that I feel compelled to comment upon.

For example, Bob Stinson continues to make interesting reading in his column, "From the Chamber". Here is a man vitally concerned with every problem that crops up in Haliburton County, whether it be acid rain, unfair taxation or apathy in government departments. Our people, particularly our business people, should consider themselves lucky to have such a champion. Those who read Bob's column are aware of the good work The Chamber is doing.

In recent weeks we have had an enlightening report from MPP, John Eakins' task force on tourism and another from Art Ward, vice chairman of Tourism Ontario. Both groups have uncovered and outlined areas of serious and immediate concern both to the government and to the tourist industry. It is hoped their words will be heeded and appropriate action taken.

But it is a curious fact that the majority of the populace prefer to remain uninformed. These are the people who will turn their radios to music stations and avoid all public service programming. When TV news comes on the set is turned off or switched to another channel. Most widely read sections of any newspaper are the sports pages and the comics. That this is true of Haliburton is indicated by the heartbreakingly poor turnout for the OPP seminar on shoplifting and the more recent meeting of the Minden Businessmen's Association.

And yet there is hope. The Home and Vacation Show, sponsored by the Haliburton Kinsmen Club, was undoubtedly the single most successful event ever staged here. The Stanhope Airport Fly-in keeps getting bigger and better. Our summer and winter carnivals continue to grow, for our county is well-blessed with public spirited citizens. Give them room and a little time and Haliburton will be deeply etched on the map of Ontario. A little greater support for the Chamber of Commerce and other public service organizations could make it happen faster.

It has just been confirmed that the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association will have a booth at this year's Snow Show, September 15 through 17, in the International Building on Airport Road, Toronto.

While this is an industry exhibition featuring all the new sleds and related products, the producers have made a number of booths available to clubs for the promotion of snowmobiling in their respective areas. Ontario's number one club, the HCSA, will be there with a large supply of its latest trail maps and other promotional material. All HCSA Com-

Fitness is fun.

Minden Srs. continue to dominate top spot

On Monday evening, in Minden, the Minden Juniors came up with a big win over Gooderham. The score was not reported but Donelda Donelko was the winning pitcher.

Monday night also saw Wilberforce travel to Haliburton only to be beaten 20-9. Nancy Maughan led the hitting for the winning team. She was also the winning pitcher while Bonnie Domato was the losing pitcher.

Tuesday night the Haliburton ladies travelled to Minden to play the Seniors. Haliburton had their new uniforms for the game and it gave the girls a lift, keeping the game close until the fifth inning. Strong hitting by Nelda Cully, Joan Paul and Terry Manser, helped the home team to a 20-10 score. Cindy Scheffee had a strong night for Haliburton. Lyn Wiman was the winning pitcher while Nancy Maughan took the loss.

Wednesday evening Minden Srs. played in Wilberforce to come up with a 19-7 score. Lori Northy and Karen MacDonald had hot bats for the Minden team. Anne Hewson recorded her fourth win while Bonnie Domato took the loss.

Gooderham was to play in Carnarvon but couldn't get enough players so Gooderham lost the game by default.

Thursday night Carnarvon played in Gooderham. Carnarvon came up on top 28-19.

Up and coming games:

Wed., June 28, Wilberforce at Carnarvon.
Thurs., June 29, Minden Srs. at Gooderham.
Mon., July 3, Carnarvon at Haliburton.
Mon., July 3, Minden Srs. at Minden Jrs.
Tues., July 4, Wilberforce at Minden Srs.

Don't forget, get out and watch these games. If you haven't seen one yet, you are missing some good games.

On Sunday, July 2, the Carnarvon ladies are hosting the Stanhope Fire Department. This will be a real grudge game as we hear the fire department have some real hot players on their teams. Last year's game was enjoyed by all and if you want to have a laugh or two, see you at the Stanhope ball field Sunday at two.

HALIBURTON — ONTARIO

Teacher, Nick Pawluch, presented the special distinction award to Kathy Musgrove during graduation ceremonies at HHSES Friday.

Elementary students graduate

One hundred and seventeen students of Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School, along with hundreds of parents and friends, gathered in the school's gymnasium Friday for the annual graduation ceremonies.

Highlight of the afternoon was the naming of the top grade eight student, and the presentation of two annual awards.

Principal, Doug Devolin, welcomed the parents and friends to the ceremonies. Guest speaker for the occasion was J. Douglas Hodgson, Director of Education for the Haliburton County Board of Education.

In his address, Hodgson told the graduates that they could, with determination and perseverance, realize their dreams. But, he told them, achievement takes discipline. He noted that the students would have to make choices throughout their life, and that those choices are the responsibility of the individual. He urged the students to continue their education as long as possible, and he said he hoped most of those who graduated Friday would be going on to university eventually.

Following the Director of Education's speech, the grade eight honour roll was read by teachers Phyllis Woodcock and Tom Dawson.

On the roll were: Peter Connelly, Anne Everall, Danny Glover, Tim Hockley, Colin Hore, Shane McGuire, Duff Mitchell, Kathy Mosgrove, Michael Pearsell, Ellen Rasmussen, Nancy Shipley, Wendy Sicard, Susan Stamp, Stephen Symonds, Anthony Vanlieshout, and Dawn Wright.

Valedictorian for the graduating class was Nancy Shipley. She received a standing ovation from her fellow students, as well from parents and teachers, following her speech in which she thanked parents and teachers for the help they gave the graduates.

The presentation of special awards followed the valedictory address.

The E. Audrey Harris Bursary, presented to the student in the graduating class, who has tried exceptionally hard to achieve success, went to Shane McGuire. The award was presented on behalf of E. Audrey Harris, by J. D. Hodgson.

The special distinction award, presented each year to the student who has achieved excellence in both academic and athletic endeavours, went to Kathy Musgrove. The award was presented by teacher Nick Pawluch.

Nancy Shipley, class valedictorian and president of this year's HHSES student council won the school's top hon-

Hundreds attend 25th HHSS convocation

A large crowd of parents, teachers and graduates gathered Saturday night at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School for the annual convocation and graduation ceremonies.

The occasion marked the 25th year the ceremonies have taken place, and in his speech to the gathered crowd Brian Mosgrove, principal of

HHSS, mentioned that "tonight's graduating class joins a group of over 2500 graduates from this school."

New graduating gowns were also issued this year as part of the special ceremonies. Grade 12 graduating students wore red gowns with white trim, while grade 13 students were issued white gowns with red trim.

Pipers, Earl and Gary Cooper, led the procession around the school for the 'final walk' and joined the staff and the platform party in the auditorium for the ceremonies. After Captain D. Burry, of the Salvation Army, gave the invocation, Mr. Mosgrove introduced the platform guests, consisting of: teachers W. Robertson, G. Brohman, Rose Kenney, Douglas Hodgson, director of the Haliburton County Board of Education, Lloyd Johnson, vice-chairman of the Haliburton County Board of Education, Micheal Scheffee, the grade 12 Valedictorian and Brent Collier, grade 13 valedictorian.

In his introductory speech, Mosgrove noted that "the graduates have had a very successful year in academic achievement, cultural and aesthetic activities, and in athletics. Indeed, the young people of this school have continued to excel in the full spectrum of human endeavours."

The Glee Club of HHSS was present at the ceremonies and entertained the crowd prior to the presentation of grade 12 and 13 diplomas.

Secondary School graduation students received diplomas first, followed by the Valedictorian speech by Micheal Scheffee on behalf of the grade 12 students.

Scheffee said in his speech that "the difference between high school and elementary school was like the difference between night and day; and right away we could feel that we were treated like young men and women, rather than just children."

He added that "discipline is another important area of teacher responsibility and many of us will appreciate in the future how they corrected our mistakes and punished us for breaking the rules. For example, when I catch my child smoking, I will know exactly what to do; hand him a garbage can and make him go around the neighbourhood picking up loose papers and pop cans."

The school's 23 Ontario Secondary School honour graduates were then presented with their diplomas, which was followed by Brent Collier's grade 13 Valedictorian address.

"I believe we have come a long way since grade nine," he said, "and our arrival here was a traumatic shock. From being the lordly seniors in elementary school, we became the lowly juniors in high school. But we have fought our way back up, slowly, gradually - sometimes slipping - but always getting a helping hand from our teachers."

"Tonight could mark the last time that we are gathered together. In a few short months, most of us will be leaving Haliburton County for university, college or a job. We have all been together for these last few years, and now we sadly part..." he said.

Commencement 1978 ended with the recessional, followed by refreshments served by Mr. & Mrs. Moss McCracken in the school's cafeteria.

News from Extendicare

by Dr. O.W. Anderson

We are all back in the same old grooves as before we went on that very interesting safari to which a third of our members went and the remaining two thirds stayed here. It was a charter bus and the rules for insurance purposes requires that every passenger must be able to get on and off the bus with reasonable agility. That is why some of us who wanted to go, didn't.

With echoes of May 18 Fun Night, held in the Haliburton High School on May 18, by the Boy Scouts of Minden, Haliburton and Carnarvon, we were invited to a dinner and entertainment held at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home, on Tuesday, which, incidentally provided an occasion to divide the profits of Fun Night between the residents of Highland Crest Senior Citizens Home and Extendicare, Haliburton. It was a delightful chicken dinner we had and it was followed by a quite cute entertainment, emceed by Mrs. Lil Rawlins, with Harold Ballard at the pipe organ for a short song, and followed by the singing of Lynn and Gail Barnhart to the accompaniment of guitar. Finally the presentations of the cheques were made by Tony McCloskey, Beaver, of Minden; David MacKay, Scout of Carnarvon; Michael Bain, Scout of Haliburton. The press was on hand to take photos of this event, which was thankfully appreciated by both recipients.

On Wednesday, the 21st, a rather commonplace event occurred that has interest. This is the beginning of summer, when, with the inclination and the rotation of our planet and the relatively fixed position of the sun at zenith, a vertical beam from it merely touched on the line called the Tropic of Cancer at 2:10 a.m. EDT, somewhere in the middle of the Pacific, while we were in bed. Having touched that line, the farthest north it could go, it simply retreated back from it and so continues south to cross the equator when we may have something more to say next September, the end of summer.

On Thursday noon, we again had the pleasure of meeting with the Senior Citizens Club of Haliburton, in the Dysart Community Centre.

This was a very successful meeting in that out of a roster of 185, there were 124 at this meeting, at a potluck dinner. Like the other dinners, this was really delicious. At the invitation of Mr. Emil Neimann, the president, Grace was said by Mr. Kenneth Stewart. Everyone seemed to enjoy the get-together if only to sit beside and talk to his neighbour.

Much to our surprise, about 2:30 p.m. the grade 3 pupils of Victoria Street public school paid us a singing visit. There have been questions arise about the problems of discipline in the schools, but you could see with these children that they adored their teachers, Mrs. Rosemary Malott, and our good friend and reliable Bill Glidden, their music supervisor. It was unthinkable that any of these children would show any rebellion to these two adults. They were so well coached that their combined voices sounded as if from one. Of course, we had to see that they had a drink of milk or juices after their walk from the school and then back. Bring the children to sing to us any time, Bill Glidden, we enjoy them and thank you very much for their being here this time.

Friday morning was our devotional period with Rev. Don Nicholson our spiritual leader, our Flossie Burk,

Theatre returns

It's summer theatre time again in the highlands of Haliburton. Sponsored by the Guild of Fine Arts, live theatre in Haliburton has become a very popular part of the summer scene.

This summer's program promises to be one of the best, and should have a broad appeal, because of the variety of entertainment and the talent of the performers involved.

The season opens on Monday, July 3, with Theatre 5's production of "Crazy Kate & Friends" - a show for the whole family. Kooky Kate and other delightful characters come to life with music, song, dance and full tilt acting skills.

Plan now to meet your friends at Haliburton High School on Monday evening, at 8:30 p.m., for an evening of lively entertainment.

The Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts gratefully acknowledges the support of the Ontario Arts Council.

A complete summer theatre schedule may be found elsewhere in this paper.

pianist. The theme of this service was "Christ is always near to guide us out of trouble". Rev. Nicholson had very attentive listeners and he is very reassuring to his people. The attendance at the after service get-together of coffee, tea, biscuits and much conversation, was well attended and enjoyed.

When a worker gets $10.00 in payment for work done that has a market value of only $2.00 on world markets, this is inflation, a word that means blown up like a balloon. That is Canada's main problem. It got into the Federal Civil Service so we have the highest costing government anywhere. It spread to the provincial governments, then to municipal, then to industry, and then invaded every pursuit. There is no blame that can be laid to government or to capital, the blame rests solely on that worker and on no one else. He may have been nudged a bit by his labor leader, but in the long run it was he who kept saying, "I want more pay."

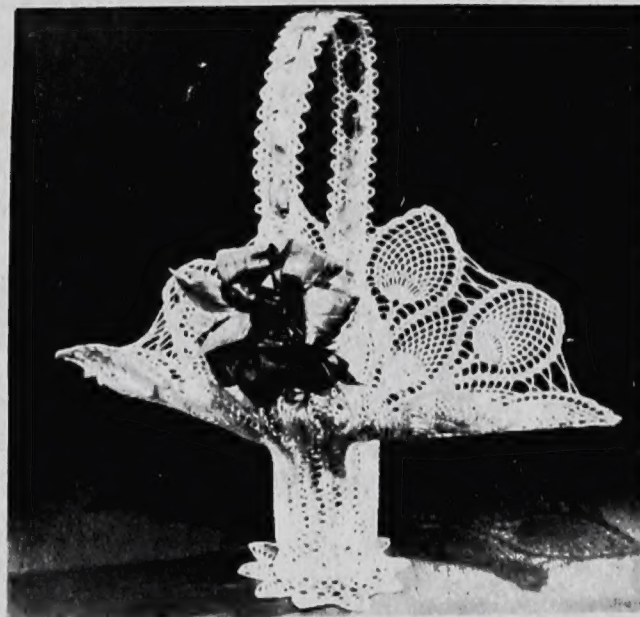

Dear Louisa, would you have a recipe for starching crochet doilies? I've often heard that one should use sugar instead of starch. What do you recommend? Mrs. J.M. Smart of Cooksville, Ontario.

I often receive letters on this subject, in fact one reader who tried the sugar method wrote, "This method may be alright for stand-up articles such as baskets, etc., but I don't recommend it for doilies, as when it dries, it's white and powdery."

I am afraid that the use of sugar does give this appearance, rather like icing a cake! However, I do know a number of ladies who use sugar quite successfully, but I prefer starch myself.

Crochet should always be laundered before being starched, but dry thoroughly first before starching. The following is a recipe for heavy starch, that is for articles that you want to be quite stiff, such as baskets or ruffles.

Mix a half cup of starch with half a cup of cold water, stir until completely dissolved. Add two quarts of boiling water, and the water must be really boiling, stir constantly to let the starch "cook" until the mixture becomes transparent. Keep covered until cool.

As I have said, this heavy starch is recommended for ruffled or fluted doilies, baskets and other crochet items and ornaments which need to stand up or away from other parts of the work.

For a lighter starch, make by the same method, but add three quarts of boiling water instead of the two quarts.

Dip the clean articles one at a time into the cool solution. Squeeze out the excess starch and roll up in a towel to dry. It is best to have several articles to starch at one time in order to make the time and effort worth your while. Baskets and fluted doilies will have to be pressed when slightly damp.

To launder crochet articles, simply squeeze gently in warm soapy water until all the soil is removed, then rinse several times until all the soap is removed. Roll up in a clean towel to dry, and when thoroughly dry proceed to starch.

Great care should be taken when pressing doilies as the tip of the iron will often get caught in the crochet and damage can easily be done. After a light pressing of the stand-up parts, use your fingers to pull the article into shape. You will have to do this several times until it is thoroughly dry.

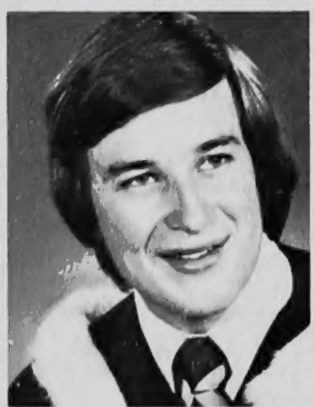

The basket which is being featured this week is an excellent example of a dainty crochet basket in a pineapple design, with ribbon interwoven through the handle.

Wouldn't these look just lovely on the tables at a wedding? The basket itself is just the right size for a slim vase which can hold cut flowers! Quickly and easily crocheted, the instructions are on Pattern No. 1142 which can be obtained by sending 75 cents along with a stamped, self-addressed return envelope to: Louisa Rush, Craft Talk, c/o The Haliburton County Echo and Minden Recorder, Haliburton, Ontario.

Haliburton Highlights

This has been my first opportunity to comment on the Kinsmen's 2nd Annual Home and Vacation Show held recently in Haliburton. Saying that it was a tremendous success is putting it mildly. It was one of the biggest events held here in some time. Thousands of people attended and practically everyone of them were delighted with what they saw. The show is growing every year and next year it should be even bigger and better. A lot of people got their eyes opened when they seen the beautiful displays and many were amazed at how many local people participated in the show. We don't feel at this time that it would be right to say that one booth was better than the rest as they were all outstanding in our estimation.

One of the big highlights of the show was the model train display in the curling club lounge. It really attracted a great deal of attention. It's impossible to run an event of this size and not make a few mistakes. The Kinsmen Club realize this and hope to make some changes for the next Home and Vacation Show. Pat Kennedy, who put in a great effort on his part, to make this show a success, stated that they were a little disappointed in the fact that more people didn't attend the curling club displays, but went on to say that next year an effort will be made to have a variety of merchandise on display in both areas.

The club also hopes to have many more outside displays next year, and to group the arts and crafts displays in the arena auditorium for security reasons. One thing happened that no one expected would happen, and that was the very large turnout on Sunday. This will possibly mean that the hours for Sunday next year will have to be extended. If this show keeps growing the way I think and know that it will, the time will come when it will take the Dysart Community Centre ice surface and auditorium, the curling rink, and a big part of the fairgrounds, plus the Legion, to accommodate the many exhibitors who will be trying to be represented at this show. They had to turn several exhibitors away this year, so what's going to happen next year? To each and every member of the Kinsmen Club of Haliburton we say congratulations on putting on a first rate Home and Vacation Show, something that the people of Haliburton and surrounding area can be justly proud of.

The village of Haliburton will soon be seeing the opening of another new business. It's the Pop Shoppe which will be located next to LaRue Motor Sales Ltd. They will be carrying a very large selection of soft drinks and you will have the opportunity to mix a case of your favorite flavors. The pop must be good because Eddie Shack drinks it all the time.

We don't know whether you have noticed or not, but many improvements have been made to the government dock in Haliburton, and if you want to bring your boat into Haliburton we now have the facilities to take care of you.

Our congratulations to Paul Dawson on his appointment to the sales staff of Cliff A. Dawson Insurance Agency Ltd., at Haliburton. A graduate of the University of Western Ontario, Paul joined the agency in September, 1976 and recently qualified for his agents license at McMaster University in Hamilton.

May we remind everyone of the 2nd Annual Fiddle and Step Dance Contest to be held at the Monmouth Community Arena, Wilberforce, this coming Saturday, July 1. It is being sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 624, at Wilberforce.

Haliburton now has another business which is in operation, Brooklin Concrete Products, which is now serving the Haliburton and Minden areas. It is located between LaRue Motor Sales and the Brewers Retail Store.

School is out and we wish the students and teachers a pleasant and fun-filled vacation.

There is one organization in Haliburton that is going ahead by leaps and bounds and that's the Senior Citizens Club. We understand that they have about 150 members and they are really enjoying their Thursday get-togethers at the Arena Auditorium. Besides the friendship that they all enjoy, they have been away to different places on bus tours and they had a splendid booth at the Kinsmen Home and Vacation Show. We understand that they took in over $1,100.00. We wish them the best of luck in the future with this fine organization.

We are certainly pleased to see that the four service clubs in Haliburton met recently in a fine act of co-operation. This was a good move and it gave each club the opportunity to say in what direction they are headed and what projects they hope to do in the future. By getting together like this it means that there should be no overlapping in various areas.

The Highlands Squash Club announced this week the public hours from July 1st to August 31st - Monday to Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. It's $3.00 for 20 minutes on the court. Racquets are available to rent for .50 cents.

Our friend, Cam Botting, who was an outstanding hockey player with the Haliburton Junior Huskies, was in town last week and we saw him at the Kinsmen Home and Vacation Show. Cam looks to be in very good physical condition and is now playing hockey with Tulsa in the Central Hockey League. It's been a long time since I have seen him.

Ontario legislature

Mace displayed

John Eakins, MPP Victoria-Haliburton, reports that history was repeated recently in the Ontario Legislature.

The Mace was carried into the House by the Sergeant-at-Arms, following a brief presentation in the main lobby of the Legislative Building. Following the session, the Mace was on exhibit for the remainder of the week.

The Upper Canada Mace was used regularly until April 27, 1813, on which date the Town of York was captured by the Americans. On their departure, six days later, the Parliament Buildings were burned and the Mace was carried off.

The Mace was kept on exhibit at the American Naval Base at Annapolis, Maryland until 1934. Through the kind offices of President Franklin Roosevelt, it was returned to the Province of Ontario in connection with Toronto's Centennial celebrations. It has been exhibited in the Royal Ontario Museum and Fort York since that time.

Following the week of June 19-23 the Mace will return to Fort York where it will once again be fittingly displayed.

Couple holds 60th anniversary

On June 17 a delightful event took place in the Christian Education Building at Carnarvon, when Bert and Elizabeth Harrison celebrated their 60th Wedding Anniversary. In the afternoon the U.C.W. catered to some 150 callers, who came to offer congratulations to the happy couple. Relatives were there from London, Oshawa, Cobourg, Brampton, Mississauga, Newmarket, Lindsay, Orillia and Sudbury.

In the evening, 80 relatives sat down to a meal. Rev. Mr. Miller asked the blessing. Nelson Harrison of London was emcee and George Cowan of Brampton proposed the toast and made many witty remarks. Bert, who writes a poem for almost every occasion that takes place at Carnarvon, responded with one. Several poems, depicting the 60 years of wedded bliss, were read. With her older son at the piano, Mrs. Verne Harrison and younger son rendered a duet. Then Lisa Harrison of Oshawa delighted everyone with a solo. She also read the various messages from the Queen and members of Parliament.

Bert and Libbie have four sons and one daughter, Mrs. Wilfred Mason of Boshkung. All of the family were present with their families and 17 great grandchildren.

They were presented with a gas stove and coloured television. These gifts were quite appropriate as Libbie loves to entertain and Bert enjoys watching TV.

The following day seemed a fitting time for the dedication of the memorial window in memory of Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Harrison and their daughter, Olive Miller. Several of the relatives stayed over to be present at the service. Olive's son and daughter also were present. Gwen Parsons and husband, of Markham, and Mr. & Mrs.

Duane Miller of Bracebridge. After the service the relatives gathered at Foggs for lunch.

Gems of Truth

The Common Denominator: "And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch". Acts 11:26.

The usage of the word Christian in our present day is by and large a misnomer and very deceptive. Many people like to be branded as being under the Christian banner, but have a very shallow concept of the true meaning of the word Christian as it is used in the Scriptures. If they were asked the question,

"are you a Christian?", the answer of the average American would possibly be similar to the one who replied, "Why yes, I suppose so". Upon a second question as to why he supposed so and wasn't sure, the reply came back that he must be a Christian because he was not a Mohammedan or a Buddhist. In his vague understanding, a Christian was any civilized person who did not profess some other faith or was not an adherent of one of the world religions.

The hazy misconception of the "faith once delivered to the saints" is quite common indeed, and many a soul could not give an adequate definition of "Christian" in the sense that the Bible uses that term. The quotation from Acts 11:26 says that the "disciples" were first called Christians and the word Christian hinges on that word. A "disciple" is one who follows a certain leader to the exclusion of all other influences, and as such studies faithfully and with complete acceptance the teachings of that leader. Furthermore, he attempts to practice those teachings in such a fashion as to make his life conform to the life of the chosen leader.

With the true meaning of the word "disciple" in mind, we can read Acts 11:26 once more and absorb its meaning, then ask ourselves the question, "Am I truly a disciple of Jesus?"

The Christian era began when the Son of God became the Saviour of men on Calvary. He had taught as never man taught before and made God the Father attractive to sinners with words they could understand. His claims of being the Christ were confirmed by signs and wonders which made people aware that here was One who was come from God and was God among them. Many of those who heard Jesus teach, grew hungry of heart and absorbed His teachings and sought to fully understand His will, and yielded their lives in complete and absolute obedience to Him. This little group of followers became known as the disciples of Jesus. When their Leader was slain, risen, and ascended back into Heaven, this small group ardently proclaimed Jesus as the Christ and a large group became persuaded and joined their company. As these followers of the Crucified and Risen Jesus spread across Asia Minor with the insistent message that Jesus was the Christ, the natural outcome was that these people became known as the "Christians". And, by that same name all "true" disciples of the Lord are properly called today.

The denominational differences sprang up much later as minor interpretation of doctrine or form of government became an issue. Thus, today it matters not what denominational banner we come under, the word "Christian" embraces all those who are truly born again believers in the Lord Jesus Christ. All who are thus saved and know it, who accept the Deity of Jesus and practice His way of life are His disciples and therefore Christians in the true sense of the word.

Any other use of the term is improper and misleading. But like most words in our modern vocabulary, the careless and thoughtless apply it at random and to many anything that is not positively heathen is termed Christian. Unfortunately, this is not the case. America, the British Isles, Europe and many other geographical sections are all counted in the statistical columns of so called Christianity, and yet a very small percentage of them are worthy to be called disciples. They do not follow Him, forsaking all else to be His constant companions. They do not study His teachings with reverence and a sincere desire to learn, nor do they attempt to live in rigid obedience to those teachings. What a grand and happy world this would be, if all who are nominally called Christian were in very truth and deed, disciples as well!

His way of life is made plain and clear, but it is a way of self-sacrifice and service, hence not acceptable to the masses of our generation. But to those who truly follow Him, it is the living and only way, and worthy of being called Christian.

Report reveals fish edible

Both lake trout and smallmouth bass in Boshkung Lake, in Stanhope Township, can be eaten without restriction if they are under 14 inches in length, according to the June report of Environment Ontario.

The report, which lists allowable consumption levels for several species of fish tested in dozens of lakes across the province, contains data on no other lakes in the Haliburton area.

Mercury levels are low enough in lake trout in Boshkung to allow unrestricted consumption of the fish, provided those eaten are under 18 inches in length. Lake trout of more than 18 inches in length may be eaten ten times in a week, if eaten only for that one week. Over a two week period, they may be eaten five times per week, and four times per week over a three week period. If a fisherman intends to eat lake trout over 18 inches long, from Boshkung, for more than three weeks a year, consumption should be restricted to no more than one meal per week, the report says.

The same consumption recommendations apply to smallmouth bass of fourteen inches and over.

The Environment Ontario report notes that women of child bearing age should eat only those fish which are in the "A" or unrestricted consumption category.

Booklets entitled "Guide to Eating Ontario Sportfish", outlining the facts about fish consumption and the resultant health implications, are now available from local offices of the Ministry of Natural Resources, Environment and Northern Affairs, the report says.

Car strikes rock, man escapes

A 21-year-old Gooderham man was treated for minor injuries at Haliburton Red Cross Hospital when his car struck a large rock after failing to negotiate a turn Saturday morning.

George Adams was south-bound on County Road #3, when he missed a turn to the left and entered the ditch. The car rolled over sideways and struck a large rock, causing the vehicle to roll over and come to rest on its wheels. Damage to Adam's car was estimated at $3,500.

A Wilberforce woman escaped injury after her car skidded in gravel on Hwy. 503 last Wednesday night and struck a rock cut.

Julie Dianne Claus, 29, was going through a construction zone when the left wheels of the vehicle caught in the gravel.

Damage to Claus's car is estimated at $3,000.

A 32-year-old Haliburton woman has been charged with failing to yield the right-of-way after her car struck another when she emerged from her driveway Thursday afternoon.

Louise A. Sisson attempted to enter the westbound lane of Hwy. 121 from her driveway, when she struck the left side of Donald Finlay's car of Tory Hill.

Damage to Finlay's car is estimated at $500, while Sisson's car sustained $50 damage.

A car sustained $600 damage after it struck a deer emerging from a west ditch on Hwy. 35, Saturday afternoon.

Carolyn Fick, 21, of Willowdale, reported to police that she was northbound and negotiating a curve to the left when the deer ran out.

Search called off, suspects remain at large

Suspected thieves believed armed

A search for a man and a woman, by Ontario Provincial Police, wanted for a series of break-ins at a hunting lodge and cabins in the Minden area, was called off yesterday.

The hunt was started Friday for three persons who were believed involved in the incidents. But a Toronto teenager, Barry Sullings, 17, was arrested in the Minden area after the couple were seen fleeing from a hunting lodge.

Sullings has been charged with pointing a firearm and numerous counts of break, enter and theft.

The search involved personnel from Minden and Bracebridge OPP detachments, the Peterborough District Canine team, an OPP helicopter, and the OPP Tactical Rescue Unit (T.R.U. team) from Downsview.

Ronald Douglas Fraser, 33, and Arlene Leah Deyoung, are still unapprehended. The couple is believed heavily armed.

The three are believed responsible for numerous break-ins and theft of property totalling approximately $2,330. Property stolen included such items as outboard motors, boats, rifles and a large quantity of food and liquor.

Service clubs form committee

A joint committee of all the service clubs in Haliburton has been formed to offset conflicts in club functions between the organizations.

John Parish, president of the Kinsmen Club, says that each club will have a representative in the committee. The committee will decide when each club will hold social and club functions such as dances or fund-raising drives or lotteries.

The first meeting of the joint committee will take place on September 1, and Brian Black of the Kinsmen is organizing it.

Once the functions are co-ordinated, says Parish, there will be no conflicts in the community between the clubs.

Two youths to participate in student exchange program

A student exchange program will give two Haliburton youths the chance to see Quebec over the summer.

Jeff Whitfield, 13, and Helen Gervais, 13, both of Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School, will be spending two weeks in Quebec while their reciprocal partners will spend two weeks in Haliburton.

The exchange program is run by a non-profit organization operating out of Toronto, called Visites Entre Provinces, and has been offering students a chance to visit each other's province over the past several years.

Christopher Childs, a French teacher at the school, says four students filled applications out, but only two made the final arrangements to actually participate.

"The applications came late, and many parents and children did not know what they were doing over the summer," said Childs.

This is the first year the school is entering into the program, but other schools in the area, including public school in Minden, have been involved in the exchange over the past few years.

"The nice thing about this program is that it is completely non-profit and travel fare is the only thing that will have to be paid for. It's a great opportunity for two children of different provinces to get together," said Childs.

Fernand Juneau, Whitfield's reciprocal partner, from St. Augustine, will arrive late Friday night.

"I haven't been there before," says Whitfield, who admits that he is anxious to see Juneau and to travel to Quebec.

Letters to the Editor

in the big American melting pot. It is axiomatic that the unity of a country is intimately linked to its identity and image abroad.

Our common experience demonstrates clearly and abundantly that acts of good will and joint efforts by conflicting parties can only lead to mutual understanding and respect, even to friendship, with all the advantages this implies.

It seems to us that the starting point towards unity is a real and drastic change of attitude towards languages and a simple appreciation and recognition of the advantages which the knowledge of languages carries in Canada or anywhere else. A second language is a recognized necessity for an educated and cultured person, most particularly when such languages are as universally used as are English and French. If the Chinese, the Russians, the Germans, the Americans to be sure, and many other nations had that same "linguistic" opportunity as have Canadians, you would see how quickly and efficiently they would exploit it to their very best advantage.

It is a matter of meeting the challenge. Here are a few of the small and simple means within the reach of all of us:

1. Post notices at appropriate places reading: "On parle francais" or "English spoken".
2. Write individually or collectively to your Editor, Member of Parliament, School Board (or all three) requesting that both English and French be effectively taught and used in the first grades of schools. Our famous Dr. Penfield has demonstrated that the ability to learn languages is greatest in young pupils.
3. Organize and/or support interprovincial visits.
4. Promote the interchange of language teachers.
5. Increase communication by organizing pen-pal clubs through newspapers or schools.

We who live overseas have made a first gesture by writing this letter. It is up to you to ensure its success through your individual or collective efforts. When the stake is the survival of the country, nobody can refuse to answer the call or to make an effort. Long live Canada!

Museum committee campaigns for funds

The museum's collection of kitchen articles is impressive

The Haliburton County Pioneer Museum Committee this week begins a campaign to raise $75,000 toward the estimated $200,000 cost of the Pioneer Museum project currently underway at Glebe Park in Haliburton. A $119,000 building on the site is expected to be completed by mid summer, while the entire project, which will include a number of outdoor exhibits in a park-like setting, may not be completed for several years.

Plans to build a new museum in Glebe Park were announced in January by the Pioneer Museum Committee, a group constituted under the municipality of Dysart et al.

A two story building, designed by the late Napier Simpson, will house displays on the second floor with a meeting hall, kitchen and storage facilities located on the ground floor. A workshop will also be provided for restoration work.

The old museum, located in the Reid House on Park Street, in the village of Haliburton, has become crowded with exhibits in the ten years it has been open. It is expected that the house, built in the 1880's, will be moved from its present location to the new museum site, and will be furnished in the style of the period. The cost of moving the house has been included in the $200,000 estimated cost of the project.

Wintario grants are expected to total $100,000, with $25,000 coming from the municipality, and the other $75,000 coming from the private sector. The Rotary Club of Haliburton, which purchased the Reid house in 1967 and donated it to the municipality for the museum, has committed $25,000 to the project. A further $3,000 will come from the county, leaving a total of $47,000 to be raised by public contribution. Area service clubs, including the Haliburton Kinsmen, are expected to contribute funds to the project. A grant may also come from the museums branch of the federal government. Museum Committee chairman, Gerry Dawson, said this week that the group hopes the necessary funds from the private sector can be raised within the next four or five months.

The present museum in the Reid House will remain open this summer. Exhibits will be transferred to the new museum building over the winter months.

"The concept of the new museum is that it will be part of a whole historic complex", Dawson said. The committee hopes the completed project will benefit tourism in the area, and will be a place where people will come to spend the day, not only viewing the exhibits inside the museum, but picnicking and enjoying the park setting, as well.

Besides the new building and the period furnished Reid House, the project may also include a sugar shack and bush, a working sawmill, a drive shed for pioneer implements, and other displays of artifacts, including a steam tow engine used in logging operations of earlier days.

Official opening of the new museum is slated for 1979.

Oddities, art, museum holds history

A museum is more than a collection of artifacts arranged in display cases. It's a place where history, and the people who lived it, come alive.

The Haliburton Highlands Pioneer Museum is a treasure chest of things that were once a part of daily life in Haliburton County, and a trip through the building is like a step back in time.

There are things of beauty, like the excellent collection of pioneer glassware and china, and there are oddities too, like the wreath made of human hair that hangs on a wall upstairs. It must have taken countless hours to create, through it's hard to imagine why anyone would have taken the trouble.

There are other treasures too, like the original survey map of the county, and a quilt at least a hundred and fifty years old.

Margaret Sisson of Eagle Lake knows these artifacts and the hundreds of others the museum contains, very well. As secretary of the committee responsible for the museum, she has catalogued every item, keeping receipts for everything that has been donated or loaned. It's a task she thoroughly enjoys.

Many of the items in the museum are on permanent loan, which means they can be displayed until the owner wants them back. Others have been donated outright, and still others are loaned for a season. And all must be accounted for.

Browsing through the museum with Margaret Sisson, is a fascinating experience, because she can point out dozens of things that are particularly noteworthy or valuable.

The Dysart survey map is one of those things, and beside it is the diary of the famous surveyor Niven, whose work the map was.

There's an album of tintype photographs that date from the early nineteenth century, when photography was a brand new science.

There's a radio made in 1922, identical to one on display in the Ontario Science Centre. There are hand painted buttons made of paper mache that were popular with Victorian ladies.

There's a crock that once dispensed radium water, which was said to be good for your constitution, though you have to wonder how radio activity could make you feel chipper.

In the living room is a pump organ that can still wheeze out a tune if you've got the stamina to pump it, and a love seat that came over by ship from Scotland, along with an early area family.

Upstairs, a period furnished bedroom holds a brush set made of ivory, and a painful looking wooden commode, among dozens of other things.

The kitchen is crowded with the utensils of earlier days, including a cherry pitter than can do two cherries at a time, a long handled instrument that made just one cookie over an open fire, and an excellent collection of early irons of all shapes and sizes.

The list could be extended almost indefinitely, for the truth is that the museum is filled to overflowing with possessions of pioneers.

Between two and three thousand people a year have visited the museum since it opened in 1968, and many of them have donated items to the collection. A lady from Buffalo once sent a tool used for making logs, and the number of donated items is increasing every year.

But the museum has outgrown the Reid House, and in the fall and winter, the displays will be moved to the new building being built in Glebe Park.

There, the museum committee hopes more people will take the time to visit the displays, and to experience the history of Haliburton County. There's nothing like a look through the museum to remind you how much we've changed.

A number of area crafts people have formed a co-op to sell their goods. Pictured at 'The Nut Hatch' store on Kashaga Drive, the location of the co-op are from left,

Opening later this week

Artisan's co-op will feature crafts

A local artisan's co-op will be opening later this week on Kashaga Drive near the village of Haliburton, and it will be open daily through July and August.

Located in "The Nut Hatch" store, formerly operated by Nancy Hubbard, the co-op will feature the work of eight crafts people from the Minden and Haliburton area.

Taking part are Carole Finn, pottery and hasty notes; Barbara Peel, pottery; Bob Short, enamelling; Ronald Modell, silver jewellery; Judy Chapman, weaving, macrame and sewing; Jean Farrell, weaving; Joan Pearson, dried flower arrangements; Marjorie Peel, needlepoint; Nancy Hubbard, weaving and leather work; and Margit Watkinson will do weaving.

Most of those taking part in the co-op store formerly sold their goods through the Guild of Fine Arts sales, Nancy Hubbard says. "It started because there is a pottery group and a weaving group in the area, and all of us had been thinking of a way to market our goods throughout the summer."

Mrs. Hubbard thinks there is a big field for the co-op idea in the Haliburton area, where there are a significant number of local artists.

"We would like to have people working in the shop" she says, "doing weaving and pottery".

"We're hoping to have some very good paintings, as well."

From July 1 the shop will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week.

Save your home: fire prevention

Fire is indiscriminate. It can strike anyone, anytime. But the chance of fire starting can be greatly reduced by following a few simple rules, all of them based on common sense. Minden Fire Chief, William Jackson, has supplied the following information on fire prevention, which should be of interest to all Echo readers.

Fire - it's a word that can note terror, loss, tragedy. In 1974, nearly 300 Ontarians died in fires, and thousands more were injured. Most of these fires occurred at night, in homes. Many of these fires could have been prevented if warning had come early enough. Most lives lost could have been saved.

Protection for your family depends on three points: reduction of fire hazards in the home; establishing fire escape routes; and providing an early warning system.

Reducing Hazards: Your fire department will inspect your home for possible hazards on request and make necessary recommendations. Educate your children about fire danger and post the fire department's number beside each telephone.

Escape Routes:

The most carefully planned escape route is useless unless practised by the family. Decide on the best possible method of escape and an alternative if possible, and then try it out.

Early Warning System: Because most fires start at night when your family is sleeping, an early warning system (smoke detectors) are invaluable, and can save lives and property.

Types of Detectors: There are two types of these, smoke detectors and heat detectors. The latter are used mostly in commercial installations and are primarily for the protection of property as the temperature must rise to 57 to 93 degrees celsius, depending on the setting, but at that point deadly smoke and gases may have killed sleeping occupants.

Smoke detectors read a fire signal and set off an audible alarm long before a thermal detector would be affected. Smoke detectors use a minute amount of radioactive material to detect smoke often before it is visible and give an excellent early warning.

There has been some fear about the amount of radioactive emission given off, but it actually is less than a luminous wrist watch or a color television set. Battery operated detectors can be installed by the home owner and are independent of your electrical service in case of power failure. Make sure that any detector purchased has a U.L.C. rating and stamped approval.

For further information on home fire safety, do not hesitate to contact your local fire department.

We sincerely hope this information will be helpful in preventing loss of property and lives.

Farm News & Views

Hay yields this summer are better than average, certainly much higher than they were last year at this time. Although temperatures were below average in the spring, weather conditions during the month have been good for the hay crop in most of the county.

In the past week, we have been asked a number of times what standing hay is worth for this first cut. From reported yields and the number of ads in the local press for standing hay, there appears to be no shortage of hay in the county. However, some of the neighbouring counties haven't received nearly as much rain as Victoria County has; consequently their hay yields are not high. Hay baled and stored for sale later in the year may well be worth more money even with baling and handling costs, than standing hay now.

Supplementary Forage Crops
If extra green feed or pasture will be needed late this summer or fall, plans for extra pasture should be made now. There are a number of crops used for annual or supplementary pasture to choose from.

Cereal grains are often used, but oats provide more palatable feed than wheat or barley. Oats can be planted almost any time during the summer for grazing or green chop in about six weeks. Seed is available as close as your grain bin. Just be sure the oats haven't heated in the bin or were artificially dried, because this seed won't germinate. Seed at 2½ bushels per acre.

Corn is the most productive forage crop grown in Ontario. When using corn for pasture or green chop only, corn from the grain bin can be planted, providing the germination is adequate. When used for green chop, the corn can be drilled at 60 pounds per acre. Start harvesting when plants are 36 inches high. Sudan-sorghum hybrids and sudan grass are used for late summer pastures. However, it is too late in the season to plant these crops for this year. If you have either of these crops planted, remember that sudan-sorghum hybrids should not be harvested at less than 2 feet high or when sudan grass is less than 18 inches high to eliminate the danger of prussic acid poisoning. Neither crop should be harvested for 5 days after a frost or when the crop is recovering from drought stress.

Milkweed
Some areas of Victoria County have a serious milkweed problem. Milkweed is one of the most persistent and difficult to control perennial weeds. Spraying with the herbicide normally used on grain crops has little effect. Cultivation or pulling the weed continuously for three or four years will gradually weaken and kill the plant. The other alternative is to use one of the two herbicides available. These herbicides are not cheap, they must be applied at the right time during the growing season and will kill all the vegetation that is sprayed.

Fields with small infestations can be spot treated and the best time to spray is now -- just as the milkweed is flowering. Amitrole or Roundup are two herbicides that are effective but label directions must be followed closely. Lightly infested fields should be treated as soon as they are noticed.

Most feel politicians dishonest

Would you buy a used car from your friendly, neighbourhood politician?

No way—at least if you are like the more than 650 people surveyed in Kitchener-Waterloo by Dr. Steven Brown, an assistant professor of political science at Wilfrid Laurier University.

The survey indicates that people rank politicians 12th on a list of 13 occupations in terms of their likelihood of selecting principles over career expediency when the two conflict. In this respect, politicians as an occupation group rank just ahead of used car salesmen.

Clergymen, physicians and policemen, in that order, are seen as most likely to follow their principles when forced to choose between the two courses of action.

Among those further down the list are dentists, professors, auto repairmen and retail merchants.

In a second question, Dr. Brown asked people whether the motives for the actions of a typical member of each occupation could be taken at face value, or whether his motives must be viewed with some suspicion.

Once again, only the actions of used car salesmen were viewed with greater suspicion than those of politicians.

Almost anyone can keep bees. As a hobby or commercial venture, beekeeping can be profitable and fascinating.

To help novice beekeepers, J.C.M. L'Arrivee, of Agriculture Canada's Information Services and a former apiculturist, has prepared a pamphlet, Beekeeping in Eastern Canada.

Honey -- from the earliest times -- has been one of the most sought-after natural sweeteners. At first man fought with bees to take honey, but later he learned how to manage them.

Today, beekeeping is an important part of Canadian agriculture, particularly in the West. Honey production in 1977 was estimated to be 27.5 million kilograms, valued at $32 million. The main producing provinces are Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Twenty or more colonies can be established within a three to four kilometre radius of a large field of wild flowers such as dandelions, clover or alfalfa, or orchards.

A colony of bees usually consists of a queen, about 60,000 workers and several hundred drones.

You can obtain honeybees by purchasing either an established colony or package bees imported from the southern United States. However, prior to purchasing an established colony of bees, you should consult a provincial bee inspector to find out what regulations must be followed.

A good beekeeper will watch over his bees all season long, although the spring inspection is the most important. It enables him to determine whether the colony is healthy and developing normally.

In the spring, a weak colony can be made stronger by introducing one or two brood combs -- from another more densely populated colony. On the other hand, a colony which is too strong can be divided by placing six of its brood combs in another hive and introducing a new queen. Failure to divide a strong overwintered colony results in swarming -- a natural process by which bees establish new colonies. Swarming results in weak and unproductive colonies because in swarming about half of the

Don't forget the Baddow Strawberry Supper coming up this weekend. This is an annual event and the supper is well worth attending. Come early or you may have to wait.

On Wednesday, July 5, the bingo at the Lion's Hall will have a good boost. The Lion's Club do their best but as often happens in these organizations, help is scarce. A meeting with Lion's president, Ted Garrels, was held last week and several ladies with some free time are going to be helping out to get the bingos back in good order. There will be two early bird games, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The jackpot prize will be $150.00 with 52 numbers called. The prize will increase by $10.00 plus one more number called each week until the jackpot goes. After the jackpot, I prize will be fifty dollars. Regular games are for ten dollars. If you can help, or would like to know more about the bingos, phone Gertrude Creighton at 454-3570, Coboconk, or Marilyn Bartley at 454-3697, Norland, or Millie Moss at 488-2399, Kinmount. Come out and enjoy yourself and meet your neighbours and support a worthy cause at the same time!

You all remember Alex Graham and his wife Helen, who used to be slaving away in the kitchen at the Patti House Hotel when Bill and Millie Moss were owners. In any case, Alex and Helen went to Ireland to live, some years ago - Alex's homeland. Alex has been in hospital, not feeling up to par. How about sending Alex a card and letting him know "you care". Send to: Alex Graham, 50 Ballinull Road, Glenberry, Ballymena, County Antrim, Northern Ireland BT424RJ.

So sorry to report that Les Caister passed away last Saturday, June 17, at Lindsay hospital, after many months of illness. Les was admitted to Ross Memorial Hospital in May, 1977, and has been there ever since. Les was the genial butcher behind the meat counter at the local I.G.A. and before that, for Sheild's. Les spent practically all his life as the local butcher, as did his father before him. Known far and wide, he was ready to lend a helping hand wherever he could and literally lived the golden rule "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." He was a faithful member of Trinity Full Gospel Church. He leaves his three sons, David, George and Steven, as well as his wife, Ella, and a number of grandchildren. Our sympathy goes out to the bereaved.

Also, on Sunday, June 18, Morris Sheldon died very suddenly at his home on Elizabeth Street. Morris lived with his mother who is up in years and disabled. Our sympathy to Mrs. Sheldon and other members of the family.

A number of the Greer, Routlev, Grozelle and McKay families paid their respects this weekend at the Mackie Funeral Home in Lindsay, to the late Byrd Greer who passed away Friday. Though Mr. Greer lived on the Davis Lake Road north of Miner's Bay, he was well known in this area. Our sympathy to his wife, Myrtle, and the family.

Mrs. Ada Irwin of Lindsay, who visited her sisters here last week, and Mrs. R. Faulkner, spent a few days with Bill and Helen Brohm and family at Ottawa. Also, Mrs. Burrell Cross visited her daughter and family in Ottawa, at the same time.

Mrs. Mary Linnick is enjoying a visit with her cousin, Miss Theresa Fitzpatrick, in Detroit, Michigan.

Mrs. Grant Benson is home again after her stay in Ross Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. F. Nesbitt enjoyed a cruise of the Thousand Islands at Kingston on Thursday, accompanying her son and his family from St. Thomas.

The long weekend is coming up. The traffic heading north last night - June 23 - was very heavy. Makes one wonder how all the extra traffic of the holiday weekend will manoeuvre on our roads. The serious accident out at the entrance into Balsam Lake Park is past week happened in mid-week when traffic was light. So be on the alert because you never know what the other driver will do!

Now that the schools are closed for the summer, watch for the children! They are not careless, only carefree! It's great to see the youngsters again with their fishing gear, waiting for their big "catch" and with their beach towels, swimming suits, water toys, etc., enjoying the water. If only we older ones had their enthusiasm for the great outdoors! They work up hearty appetites and are always looking for goodies. How about some Jam-Gems?

Jam-Gems
Mix as for pastry -
2 Cups Flour
3 Tsp. Baking Powder
2 Tbsp. Sugar
1/4 Tsp. Salt
1 Cup Lard
Add -
1 Beaten Egg
1/2 Cup Milk
1 Tsp. Vanilla
Roll as pastry, cut in squares, place in tart tins. Add a dab of good raspberry jam, press points to centre.

Bake at 350 F until pale golden. Yield 60 cookies in medium size tart tins.

Your prescription tablets, your aspirin, etc., all have little gobs of battering in the top. Save the cotton batting and use for removing nail polish, makeup, etc. Saves paying top price in the local drug mart.

Stanhope Notes

Stanhope Township swimming instruction program was faced with some uncertainty due to the very high level of the water at the Hall's Lake location for a new beach. Work which was to be carried out by the Township to prepare a beach could not be proceeded with.

An inspection of the site on June 20, by deputy reeve, Jim Harrison, and councilman, Elvin Johnson, both members of the Recreation Committee, led to the conclusion that there was no use waiting any longer before finding an alternate site for the program.

Thanks to the efforts of deputy reeve Harrison, the matter was brought to the attention of the council at Minden and on June 24 permission to use the beach at Little Boshkung was granted to Stanhope Township for the month of July.

This display of co-operation by Minden will be much appreciated by those interested in proceeding with the children's swimming instruction.

Due to the change in location there will be some alteration in the bus arrangements and this is being worked out.

Those registering for the course will be advised of the pick-up points at the time of registration which takes place at the Stanhope Library, July 1, from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. The course begins July 4 and is carried through the month of July.

The shocking information that councilman, B. Napier Simpson, Jr., was killed in a flying accident in Newfoundland, has left those who knew him with a sense of loss, and the better one knew this gentleman, the more they realize that a good and useful man is gone.

Special meeting held

A special meeting of the Glamorgan Township council was held on June 13 to deal with park development and recreation matters.

The amended master plan, the final design and working drawings for the township park has been approved as presented by Totten Sims Hubicki Associates. Council agreed to employ Tammie Dewey to keep the beach area clean, as done in previous years.

A lighted bulletin board will be placed in front of the post office to list events taking place in the township.

District News

Held in Wilberforce

Public info centre available

John Eakins, MPP Victoria-Haliburton, has been informed by the Ministry of Transportation & Communications that a public information centre will be held at the township offices in Wilberforce on July 13, 1978.

The Ministry representatives will be present to discuss the proposed road reconstruction with interested parties between the hours of 2:00 - 4:00 p.m., and 6:00 - 9:00 p.m.

Eakins urges anyone interested or concerned with the reconstruction plan to attend and meet with the ministry officials.

Campgrounds introduced

Privately run campgrounds in the province will be introduced into the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism campsite vacancy reporting program for the first time starting June 22.

In past years, the program has included only campsite vacancies in provincial parks. "Through the media, our program will ensure campers throughout Ontario of up-to-the-minute vacancies for camping weekends," said Ontario Minister of Industry and Tourism, John Rhodes. "The inclusion of privately run campgrounds in the reporting program will give campers more alternative camping facilities than ever before."

Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays during the summer the ministry's Barrie office will provide campsite availability reports direct to the media. All campgrounds in the province, south of and including the North Bay region, will be covered.

Completion of all construction and removal is set for the summer of 1979.

On June 19 the Reservoir Lakes held stored water at 97.5 per cent of maximum which was up about 1 per cent from a week ago, due to the rain on June 12-13. A check of last year's records shows that the lakes had already reached 69.6 per cent by June 20.

Gull, Burnt, and Otonabee flows today, June 23, are 12.9 cubic metres per second (454 cfs), 6.1 cubic metres per second (217 cfs), and about 22.0 cubic metres per second (777 cfs) respectively.

The Kawartha Lakes remain at or above summer navigation levels with some small losses occurring due to evaporation by dry air and high winds. This situation indicates that only minimum flows are likely to be needed from the Reservoirs during the coming week.

Lake Simcoe - Couchiching remains about 1 cm above the rule curve level of 219.10 m for this time of year. Discharge from Lake Couchiching at Washago has been about 22.7 cubic metres per second (800 cfs) since a small reduction on June 19.

The contract for the reconstruction of the Buckhorn dam has been awarded, and construction will start shortly.

The new dam - a cement structure with large radial sluice gates - will be built below the existing dam. The channel here is deeper, but no wider. The old dam will serve as the coffer dam while the new one is being constructed. It will then be removed.

Those who had Secret Pals last year found out who they were, and the new Secret Pals were given out.

The September 20 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. M. Bunker. Those who wish to attend will meet at the post office at 1:30 p.m. for their ride to her home.

On June 12 the Library-Museum Committee met at Minden Library. The treasurer reported that the Fun Nite had only netted about one half of last year's night.

Plans were discussed regarding the dance, July 8. If you have not bought your ticket yet, the members of the committee have some. There will be refreshments and also a bar. It was decided to ask several architects regarding plans for the new library. The next meeting will be at Minden library on July 10, at 8 p.m., and it is hoped that anyone interested will attend.

And what is so rare as a day in June? If ever, come perfect days; Then heaven tries the earth if it be in tune, and over it softly her warm ear lays; Whether we look, for whether we listen, we hear life murmur, or see it glisten...It used to be that this verse was right, but now our seasons are not like that, so one never knows what to expect. You know, I planted my garden in May, but the beans and cucumbers did not come up so it was replanted last week. If these are gone, that is it, when the ground was hoed again, there were no seeds at all; where they went I do not know, but they were gone. Maybe the twister took them somewhere else. If anyone finds seeds where they should not be, let them grow and enjoy the beans and cukes with my blessing.

It is with sadness that I think of the weekend of June 23; for it was a very sad time for everyone. That was the weekend that should be remembered, for because some one thought it would be fun to take the rope that was showing where one could swim at Rotary Park, a child lost his life. It was also when all heard that Mr. Napier Simpson, who had just resigned from Stanhope council, lost his life in the plane crash in Newfoundland; a sad loss to our county. Also, this was the weekend when the police were so busy trying to find the two people who have been robbing all the camps from north of Bala into our area. I watched the helicopter that was searching, come in for a

Norland Notebook

Chairs had to be added in the aisle for extra seating at the Norland United Church last Sunday evening, June 18, when about 40 Masons from the King George V Masonic Lodge, Cobocok, and guest Masons from Toronto, Beaverton and Lindsay paraded to the church. The swirl of bagpipes was heard as pipers Mr. & Mrs. Jim Thompson, of Kinsmount, marched the men the short distance from the post office assembly point. Rev. Eric Hudson, Bancroft, was guest minister and Dr. Fred Weir, Cobocok, organist at the special service that followed. Afterwards everyone was invited to the social get-together prepared by Mason's wives and served in church.

Yes, all of you who like to play Bingo, there will be Bingo in the Norland Community Hall again this summer. Starting July 3, there will be Bingo every Monday evening at 8:00 p.m. Admission is $1.00 and extra cards are two for .25 cents with a $100.00 jackpot if won in 50 numbers. Thanks to Marlene Barley for organizing this popular indoor pastime and to Phyllis LeCraw who will be calling the lucky numbers. Congratulations to Don and Muriel Young, a popular and well-known couple from Head Lake, who celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary on Friday, June 23. Their family arranged a dance in their honour at the Cobocok Legion Hall where their friends and relatives expressed best wishes on this happy occasion.

Come out and support the Norland Firefighter's Association Fourth Annual Horse Draw, at Ward Park, North Norland, on Saturday, July 8, at 1:00 p.m. There will be light and heavy horses, ponies, women's single horse draw, games of chance, a refreshment booth and a fish pond for the children. Admission is $2.00 for adults, $1.00 for children under 12 years and pre-schoolers free. On display in the window of the township office, are large Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls, on which the firemen are selling lucky draw tickets at .35 cents each or 3 for $1.00. Be sure and purchase yours from one of our local volunteer firemen or at the Red and White Store, and if you win, delight a child of any age with these cuddly toys, attractively made and donated by Mrs. Phyllis LeCraw.

On Wednesday, June 21, Northern Schools, consisting of the elementary schools of Kinsmount, Kirkfield, Cobocok, Burnt River and Norland athletes obtained 200 points at the track and field day held in Lindsay. The winning points for this meet were 229 so our local schools should be congratulated on the fine showing in this tough competition. Norland's Robbi Landry, son of Florient and Wanda Landry, was the overall junior boy winner for Northern Schools, winning the junior high jump, running long jump and the 400 meter race. He also placed second over all in the complete Lindsay meet.

Our athletic and energetic Norland youngsters went on to win the 3 pitch baseball tournament in Kinsmount, against Cobocok, Burnt River and Kinsmount schools, on Thursday, June 22. In case you don't know, in a 3 pitch baseball game, the batter is only allowed 3 pitches but the pitcher is on the same team as the batter. This allows more players to be up to bat. Mr. Haugh, the principal, attributed the success of the baseball team to the newly formed Norland Athletic Club for the excellent work done with the ball players, prior to the tournament.

June 27 is graduation day for the following grade 8 students - Stephen Bartley, Jennifer Batty, Danny Brohm, Denise Gray, Marion Liscombe, Anne Pattullo, Jim Quinn, Michael Sleeman, JoAnn Teskey, Phillip Tidswell, Trent Watson, Kevin Graham and Clinton Putterbaugh. There will be a dinner for the graduates in the Women's Institute Hall, followed by a dance in the Community Hall, Tuesday evening. Our very best wishes to these young people as they look forward to entering secondary school next September.

Sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Byard Greer who passed away after being in failing health for some time, on Thursday, June 22. He is resting at Mackey Funeral Home, Lindsay, with services from the Norland Pioneer Baptist Church on Saturday, June 24, at 2:00 p.m. Our thoughts are with his daughter, Elaine (Mrs. Glen) Bryant and his son Bernard, of Norland, and other family members, at this sad time.

Badow Strawberry Supper is on Saturday, July 1, beginning at 3:00 p.m., in both the Badow United Church and the Community Centre. Admission is adults $4.00, children under 12 $2.00, and preschoolers free. This is always a delicious annual meal prepared by the good cooks of the Badow area, so plan to attend.

My apologies for printing the wrong phone number last week, for Jean Boyce's Flea Market. Correct number is 454-8017 and if you are interested in renting a table at the Flea Market on Saturday, July 1, at 10:00 a.m., contact Jean as soon as possible.

Lucky winners of the raffle sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Firemen, drawn at the dance last Saturday, June 17, were: first prize - hamper and bathroom scales set - Grace Graham and second prize - pitcher and glasses set - Vernon LeCraw.

Whether you celebrate it as Dominion Day or Canada Day, do enjoy our first official summer holiday on July first weekend.

Maple Lake News

by Ada Gibbs

There seems to be a considerable amount of illness throughout our community, no doubt due to the changeable spring weather we've been having. I'd like to comment on a few cases I know.

Mr. Reg Cook is now at home again after having surgery in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough. We understand that Ted Carr is really improving, and has had a few final stitches removed at a local hospital.

Next we learn that Mr. Henry Howe suffered a heart attack last Tuesday and has been hospitalized for a few days.

Get well wishes are extended to all these ill folk, not forgetting Mr. Norman Wallace of Hwy. 35, who has had a real dose of flu or some such bug.

In the Coming Events section I will draw your attention to the "Barn Sale" which is being sponsored by St. Peter's Anglican Church. Any donations you wish to make, to help out, will be gratefully received. Don't forget the date - July 8th - 1 p.m. at Barclay's Barn, on the North Shore Road.

We welcome home, Mrs. Louise Clark, from her month's vacation in Northern Ireland, where she visited relatives and friends. We missed you, Louise, but you deserved that holiday.

Congratulations to all the boys and girls who are completing another successful school year. Special congratulations to all students who made their year without having to write any final exams, and also to all graduating students from HHSS.

The local branch of the Superannuated Teachers of Ontario, held their annual spring luncheon at Wigamog Inn last Wednesday, June 21. Being members, Violet Smith and myself were in attendance, and it was really good to see that we've stirred out a few members.

Following the delicious buffet luncheon and a short business meeting, we heard from our guest speaker for the day, Mr. Ronald Curry, of Haliburton, who spoke on Early Local History. His talk was much enjoyed by all present and most of us found it to be very informative. As a follow-up to this, at the close of the meeting, everyone was invited to visit an early local site in the Maple Lake area, that of the John Billings estate, through the courtesy of Mr. Napier Simpson, the present owner of the Billings property. This was a first visit for most of us, and one we won't soon forget, from the ancient and modern dwelling to the barn buildings, the beautiful landscaping now being done, the gardens, shrubs, etc. Last, but not least on our way out, everyone stopped their cars and got out to wander down a wooded slope to the little cemetery plot, enclosed by a wrought iron fence, in which were laid to rest, Mr. & Mrs.

John Billings, as long ago as 1923. Local stone was used to mark each separate plot, and a monument, also of local craftwork, with a plaque engraved for each of Charity and John stood at the head of the grave plots. This is really a remarkable site. It is interesting to recall that John Billings was the builder of St. Peter's Church as it is now, completed in 1905. All who weren't familiar with our area took time on their way home to visit the interior of the church and remarked on the beauty of the stone work.

Mr. Billings' two nieces, who shared his home in the early years, Miss Charlotte Cooper and Mrs. Lizzie Harrison, are residents of Hyland Crest Home, Minden.

Mr. & Mrs. Frank Ross of Oshawa visited with the John Dyers last Thursday.

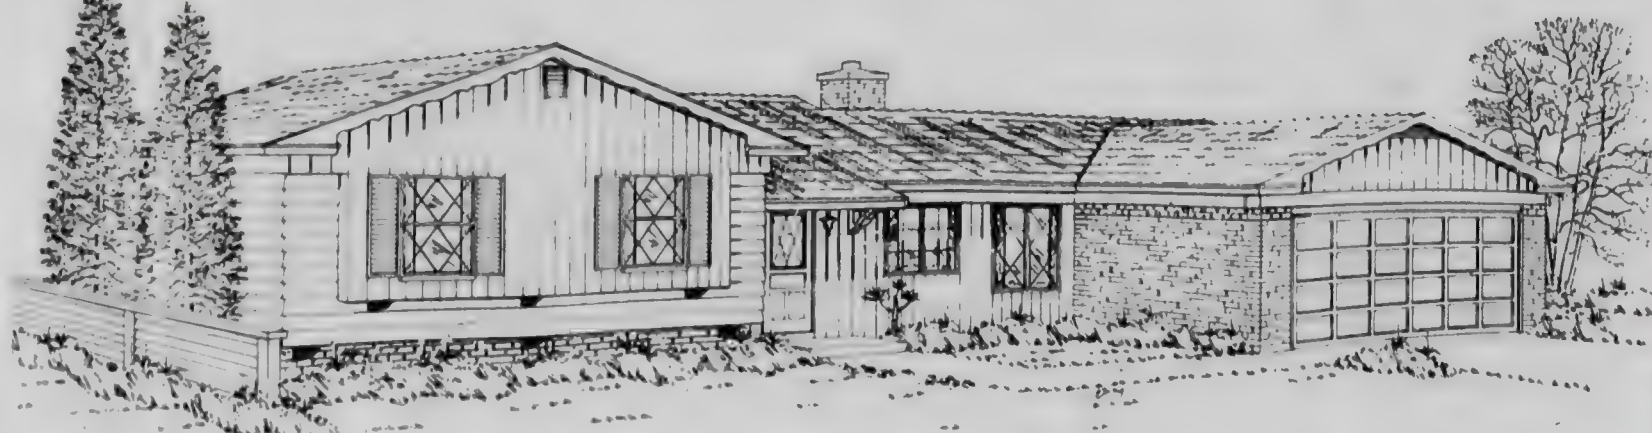

Rev. William Fairley speaker

Mrs. Roxana McPhail visited recently with her daughter's family, Mrs. Lila Ickson, at their home in the Trenton area. While there, Mrs. McPhail attended the wedding of her grand-daughter, Mr. & Mrs. Chas. Sawyer and son also attended the wedding.

Mrs. Jessie Prentice, still an active member of St. Peter's Anglican Church Women, although she now is living in Bridgenorth, likes to keep in touch with the other Maple Lake members. Early in May, our group was invited to hold their final meeting of the summer, in June, at Jessie's home in Bridgenorth. It seemed like a long drive to attend a meeting, but the two carloads of women who drove there, June 23, felt it was a really worthwhile day.

First on the agenda was the business meeting. While discussion was in progress, Rev. Ron Sims and Mrs. Sims, who are now residing there, arrived to join the group for the social part of the meeting which was in the form of a surprise potluck luncheon. Another familiar face in the group was that of Helen, Mrs. Buttmore, of Peterborough.

Talk about potluck! One would think the meal had been carefully planned, as nothing seemed to be missing. The remainder of the time was spent in visiting and when home time arrived all were sorry to leave. However, duty calls and the women, remembering the hungry workmen at home, got on their way to be home to get those men fed.

HOME OF THE WEEK
SPACIOUS SIDE SPLIT
Plan Number: 65-1646

Here is an ever-popular split level design which harmonizes rustic and contemporary elements into a pleasing exterior, and which is ideally suited to the wide frontage, rear view lot. The mixed vertical and horizontal siding, brick veneer and shingle roof, and the shuttered, diamond-paned windows integrate well with the low-profile characteristics of the ranch-style bungalow.

The entrance, which is weather-sheltered, country-style, leads into a compact foyer, and naturally forward into the large living-dining room combination, which is designed for relaxed and comfortable entertaining.

The dining room and large family room are divided by a large and dramatic fireplace, which is open to both rooms - providing for added convi-lity when entertaining and allowing barbecue meals indoors. The family room connects to a wide rear patio via sliding glass doors for convenient outdoor living in fine weather.

The well-planned U-shaped kitchen and breakfast nook separate via snack bar counter, making possible a variety of interior decor possibilities.

The bedroom and bathroom complex is elevated three risers from the main

Lung association holds annual meeting

The annual meeting of the Lung Association for Victoria-Haliburton was held at the end of May at Fenelon Falls United Church.

Speaker for the evening was Reverend William Fairley, from Fenelon Falls Presbyterian Church. The central point of Reverend Fairley's speech was to look always at the "total person" - the physical, emotional, environmental sides of the complex human being - to better understand the person. A historical background of Robert Burns and his times was lucidly drawn. From this background, Reverend Fairley drew analogies between some of Burn's poems and people in general, in today's society.

Entertainment was provided by a quartet of girls from the Fenelon Falls Secondary School Band. They performed four delightful clarinet pieces under the very capable leadership of Al Nicholson, Music Department Head.

In his president's report, Ralph Stokes thanked all the faithful and the new contributors to the Christmas Seal Campaign for their support. He stated that the 1977 Campaign realized over $13,000. The Lung Association contributed to the "Ricky Raccoon Anti-Smoking Programme" in Victoria and Haliburton Counties this year - it provided $500 to grade 12 and 13 students in both counties to study environmental problems affecting respiratory health and it sent $8,000 to research programmes in respiratory diseases. A Digital Pulmonary Function Machine was purchased for the Ross Memorial Hospital Respiratory Technology Department. Funds are being provided to purchase necessary respiratory equipment for the Haliburton and Minden Red Cross Hospitals.

Tribute was paid to Vern Grant, who died this year. He was a past president of the Lung Association who had given tirelessly of his time since the organization's inception.

Janet Smith succeeds Betty Garbutt as the executive secretary of the Lung Association. The new executive and directors of the Association, for 1978-79, are: bees leave with the queen. In late summer, when the combs are three quarters capped (full of honey and covered with wax) they may be removed and the honey extracted. In eastern Canada the major honeyflow occurs in July with less nectar flows in late May and early September. Professional beekeepers usually use a bee escape board, acid boards or a motorized bee blower to remove the bees from the honey filled combs. If you only have one or two hives you can use a bee brush, but this method is time-consuming and hazardous.

In eastern Canada bees can be overwintered outside in protective cases or brought into a bee cellar. In either case, ventilation must be good and the bees must have sufficient stores of food -- at least 30 kilograms per colony," Dr. L'Arrivee says. He cautions that people who are allergic to bees or pollen should avoid all contact with bees and bee equipment.

Prospective beekeepers in Western Canada can ask for publication No. 1542, Beekeeping in Western Canada. Both are available in either French or English.

TOWNSHIP OF SNOWDON FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AT DECEMBER 31, 1977 AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Township of Snowdon

We have examined the balance sheet of the Corporation of the Township of Snowdon as at December 31, 1977, and the statements of revenue and expenditure and capital operations for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Township of Snowdon and the results of their operations for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario municipalities applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

A, H & M Council

The government dock on the Gull River in Minden is in a bad state of repair, and should be rebuilt from the bottom up, according to Anson, Hindon and Minden council. But the federal government doesn't agree.

At their regular meeting last Wednesday, council considered a letter from M.H. Moffat, an official of the federal Ministry of Fisheries and Environment, the Ministry in charge of docks on navigable waterways.

Council noted that it had asked a knowledgeable individual to inspect the dock, and that the inspection revealed that the timbers supporting the top of the dock were rotten for several inches and that the deck boards were also in need of replacement. An inspection carried out for the federal ministry, however, found only that two nails were protruding from part of the dock. The letter from Moffat noted that a contractor would be asked to carry out the minor repairs the government inspector deemed necessary.

A complete rebuild of the dock would cost an estimated $12,000, and the Ministry officials letter said no money was available to rebuild the dock.

Though council disagreed with the findings outlined in the letter, councillors noted that little could be done this year to carry out the needed repairs unless the Ministry could come up with the funds.

Galway/Cavendish

Galway/Cavendish council approved of the following matters at their 11th annual meeting in Cavendish on June 9.

The township will donate $100 to the Buckhorn Community School Association to assist them in their project to establish a new playground. A letter was presented to council detailing the plans of the project.

Reg McIlwain attended the council meeting to discuss the Young Canada grant, which he was hired to work on. Council outlined his duties and the various locations he would be working at.

Council approved the motion that councillor Stuart inspect the property connected with severance B-107-78, lot 6, conc. 16, Galway Township, and submit his recommendations at the next regular council meeting.

Resolutions concerning the administration of school board taxes from the towns of Geraldton and Walden have been tabled, since the council felt both were negative and mismanaged.

Councillor Stuart will inspect Mr. Francis Ireland's property in regards to severance of B-112-78, lot 1, conc. 16.

Council will also inspect Mr. Russ More's property on Saturday, June 24, pertaining to an application to construct an access road over Crown land.

The reeve and the clerk have been authorized by council to submit an application for Canada Works Phase III, funding in the amount of $33,701, for renovation and upgrading of the present and future community centre facilities and brushing along municipal roads.

Glamorgan Council

At the regular meeting of Glamorgan Township council, on June 1, the following matters were approved.

The township will purchase six "Caution - Watch for Children" signs for required places on township roads.

The reeve and clerk will execute a Quit Claim Deed to Madeline Edna Pfau for a portion of the open lot line between lots 30 and 31, conc. 3 in the township.

The treasurer has been authorized to pay the 1977 Committee of Recreation members and secretary honoraria of $25 per annum, as recommended by the committee.

The location of the South Algonquin Kinsmen's Club

Participate stations, one through five, has been approved, provided the stations do not interfere with the park development. The sign location will be negotiated with council.

The council approved the Committee of Recreation Management's proposal to assist the Atom and PeeWee softball teams.

Council agreed to appoint Dale Dovel as a member of the Glamorgan Volunteer Fire Department.

The Ontario Home Renewal Program loan application was approved in the amount of $7,500. Council agreed that all work must be completed to the satisfaction of the building inspector.

IN MEMORIAM

DART - In loving memory of mother Margaret Jane, and Dad, William Reginald, and brother Glen.

"Thy will be done" seems hard to say, When ones we love have passed away. Some day perhaps we'll understand, When we meet again in that better land.

Lovingly remembered by Bud, Grayce, & Family. CB/28

MILLER - With cherished memories of my dear father, Stewart Wm. Miller, who departed from this life June 20, 1970.

Eight years ago today God called Dad away. A day I will never forget. He left me with loving memories. And deep in my heart they are kept.

Always remembered in love by Edna.
